TARIFF FOES TALK LOUDER AGAINST BILL

Resentment to Proposals Assuming Aspect of International Politics

HOOVER VIEWS SOUGHT American Capital Abroad Also Joins Against New Tariff Measure

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1929, By Post Pub. Co.

Washington—The tariff is getting entangled in international as well as national politics. Resentment against the American tariff proposals, expressed at the meeting of the international chamber of commerce in Amsterdam, is not surprising to officials here as there are on file many official protests from foreign governments who think that the tariff is inimical to their interests. Ordinarily an attack from foreign quarters is significant only as it affects international good will but for the first time in American history many billions of American dollars are invested abroad so that it is difficult to measure the repercussions within the United States of a proposal that affects adversely foreign interests.

American capital is heavily interested today in foreign enterprises and there are commerce and investment banking institutions in the United States, many of them very influential, who feel as resentful about the ill-effects from an economic viewpoint of the proposed tariff schedule as do the foreign citizens. The antagonism against the United States on account of the upward revision of the tariff, extends to Latin America as well as to Europe. Another curious phase of the situation is that many American concerns which import foreign merchandise in large quantities have hesitated to come in the open with their protests for fear that protected industries on this side of the Atlantic will not patronize them.

SEEK HOOVER'S VIEWS
The fight against the tariff, therefore, travels on devious routes. The impression prevails here that the foreign opposition to the American tariff is fully understood by President Hoover and that, when the senate revises the house bill, the views of the president will be constantly sought.

It is not believed a measure satisfactory to the outside world will be adopted but much of the sting may be removed if the revision is limited to a few schedules and the remainder left as in the present law.

The tariff bill has hard sledding. The Democrats are mobilizing to attack from another flank. They think the flexible tariff provisions are dangerous in that they would vest in a commission and the president the right to do what congress alone should do. The unconstitutionality of the flexible tariff idea has been upheld by the house bill. It is believed that the house bill will give more extensive powers than ever before were granted and it is this suggestion that has aroused the Democrats who see in it an issue of forcing them as many opportunities to embarrass the Republicans as did the export debenture plan. The tariff fight is shaping up in such a way that any prediction of what will be in the bill can be easily upset. The Republicans on the senate finance committee are endeavoring to change the house bill but the insurgent Republican coalition with the Democrats led by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, probably will have final say.

SOUTHERN CROSS MAY FLY TO UNITED STATES

Rome—(AP)—Captain Charles Kingsford Smith, noted Australian trans-Pacific flyer, told the Associated Press today that he had virtually decided to fly from England to the United States in the Southern Cross as soon as he had time to have his three motors overhauled.

When the Captain arrived here today enroute to London from Sydney, N. S. W., he was met by C. C. Maidment of the Wright Whirlwind Motor company, who was asked to accompany the plane to London in order to supervise the overhauling. The three whirlwind motors of the plane have been flown only 500 hours.

As soon as Captain Kingsford Smith has inspected four airplanes in London destined for the Australian service, he will start seriously on his plan to fly the Atlantic.

Kohler JOKES AS HE GETS PAPERS FROM SHERIFF

Dane-co Official Hands Him Summons and Complaint in Home Town

Kohler—(AP)—Silence and a smile were the greetings of Walter J. Kohler yesterday for the legal documents that his political foes hope will oust him from office as Wisconsin's governor.

The chief executive late yesterday afternoon was served with a summons and complaint of a civil suit, alleging violation of the state corrupt practices act, in the main office of his plant here.

How seriously Governor Kohler took their action yesterday perhaps was demonstrated when he countered Sheriff Harold Smedal's presentation of the summons with a tray of sandwiches, a cup of coffee and a joke. The refreshments disposed of, the governor and Dane-co's sheriff posed for newspaper cameramen.

The complaint in the present civil suit, resorted to after Judge S. B. Schein of Dane-co declared that he found no evidence of criminal guilt on the part of the governor in the financing of his pre-election campaign, charges Governor Kohler with violation of the state's corrupt practices act insofar as he expended more than $4,000 during his 1928 campaign.

It cites a number of cases in which the executive then candidate, is alleged to have violated the law, knowingly or unknowingly, and goes on to state that under the law, whether Governor Kohler knew of the violations or not he is guilty.

MAKES BRIEF STATEMENT
Governor Kohler refused to discuss these charges before a large group of newspapermen gathered for service of the complaint. He issued a

18 SURVIVORS SAVED FROM SWEDISH SHIP

London—(AP)—With rescue of 18 survivors of the Swedish steamer Botte, wrecked near Yarmouth on a sand bank Saturday night, an explanation has been offered of a mysterious North sea explosion which led to a fear of a major sea disaster. A Dutch steamer took the officers and crew of the Botte off when it was seen she would founder. Later the steamer Arneberg in the same locality wireless Lloyd's here an unidentified ship had sunk nearby after an explosion.

Captain Boreson of the Botte, after examining the Arneberg's reckoning, said he was convinced the explosion was due to the Botte's hatches blowing off when the tide came up and it slipped off the sand bank into deep water, long after the crew had been taken off her.

The crew of the Botte was landed at Hull today.

WALES CONFERS HONORS FOR BRITISH MONARCH

London—(AP)—The Prince of Wales, wearing the uniform of a colonel of the Welsh guards, walked from York house to Saint James palace today, where on behalf of the king he presented the insignia of honors conferred recently on his majesty's birthday. Large crowds watched his arrival at the palace for the ceremony.

Mexican Congress Will Be Convened On July 20

Special Session Called to Consider Labor Code of Portes Gil

Mexico City—(AP)—President Emilio Portes Gil will issue a call immediately for a special session of the Mexican congress to convene July 20 to consider the special labor code which he announced last November. The code involves radical changes in the relationship between employer and employee. Its adoption will mark one of the young revolutionary government's greatest strides along the path designated for it by its mentors, Alvaro Obregon, Plutarco Elias Calles and President Portes Gil.

Many innovations are contemplated in the measure, probably the most drastic of which is a system of obligatory labor. Senator Portes Gil published his proposals shortly after he was elected provisional president and while still minister of interior in the Calles' cabinet.

Three Men Are Killed By Lightning

Bolt Sweeps Through Building as Men Tie Horses—
Three Others Unhurt

Wisconsin Rapids—(AP)—A bolt of lightning killed three men during a brief, but terrific electrical storm that suddenly broke over the Buena Vista marshes, near here, yesterday afternoon. The flash also killed eight horses.

The dead are: Fred Anderson, 28; Walter Peterson, 30, and Herman Behrene, 45, all of whom lived in the little town of Kellner, six miles from here. Anderson is survived by his widow; Peterson by his widow and two children; and Behrene by his widow and eight children.

The men with 22 others, had been stripping seed from June grass on the marshes when the storm broke. They rushed for shelter to an abandoned house. With them were Helmut Timm, Otto Homman and Walter Burmeister.

As they were tethering their horses in the house, the interior of which is divided by a sort of rough partition, a flash of lightning was seen to enter one of the windows. It swept along the partition, killing the men and the horses in its path, and vanished through a door without doing the least damage to the building. The men and animals on the far side of the partition were unhurt. The others were killed instantly, with the exception of Anderson, who lived for a few minutes.

The storm, which was marked by heavy rain and hail, a strong wind and a terrifying electrical display, lasted a scant 45 minutes. During that time, however, it inflicted considerable damage. Trees were uprooted and the region was without telephone service for several hours.

By a strange coincidence, six of the eight horses killed were the teams of the tree dead men. The other two belonged to Timm.

WOMAN KILLED

Wausau—(AP)—Mrs. Elmer Krueger, 29, town of Fitch, four miles west of this city, was killed by lightning yesterday during a terrific electrical storm which swept this district. Her seven-year-old daughter, Doris, was stunned.

The one-story frame home in which Mrs. Krueger lived was badly damaged by the bolt, which entered through the chimney. Mrs. Krueger was struck while she was lowering a window.

Burial will take place Friday near Bondell, where Mrs. Krueger lived until a year ago.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Platteville—(AP)—Heavy damage to corn by washing off the soil was done by a terrific rainstorm which swept a wide section of southwestern Wisconsin yesterday. Bottom lands were submerged. Fields of hay and grain ready for harvest are waterlogged.

THREE CITIES WANT LUTHER LEAGUE MEET

Omaha—(AP)—A tri-cornered fight for the next convention city today threatened to split the delegation attending the 18th biennial convention of the Luther League of America. The cities involved are Detroit, Reading, Pa., and Syracuse, N. Y.

REPORT SLAYING BY U. S. ARMY SERGEANT

Tacoma, Wash.—(AP)—Military authorities at Fort Lewis announced that Sergeant John Robinson, Battery F, Tenth Field artillery, shot and killed Corporal Frank Ignatz, service battery, also of the Tenth artillery, in Robinson's quarters yesterday.

Robinson's wife and his small child witnessed the shooting. Robinson, also shot and seriously wounded, was in the Fort Lewis military hospital. Military authorities aided by John R. McCutcheon, assistant U. S. district attorney, and Edmund B. Benn, U. S. Marshal, started an investigation.

AIRMEN ARE EXPECTED TO REACH GOAL

Ideal Weather Causes Experts to Predict Safe Arrival in Italy

New York—(AP)—Up to 3 o'clock p. m., today, about 30 hours after the departure of the monoplane Pathfinder from Old Orchard, Me., on a 4,232 mile flight to Rome, no new word had come from the craft which, barring accident, should be nearing the Spanish coast.

Ottawa—(AP)—With no direct word from the 'Untin' Bowler for three days, the exact whereabouts of the Chicago-Berlin plane was a matter of conjecture today.

The hum of its motor, picked up by radio station at Cape Hope's advance, west of Port Burwell yesterday, indicated that the plane was in the air at the time. But whether it was continuing its flight toward Greenland, or merely up to receive weather reports was not known.

The last message from the plane was received Friday. It was almost undecipherable, but was interpreted to say that the plane was landing at Great Whale, on James Bay, because of bad weather.

New York—(AP)—The Rome-bound monoplane Pathfinder, aided by tailwinds and near-perfect flying conditions otherwise, presumably was approaching the European coast today, flying high and with speed increased by a lightened fuel load.

Although the craft carrying Roger Q. Williams, former aviation instructor for the army, and Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, master mariner, had been reported since 3:50 a. m. yesterday when an escort plane said it was "going fine" 75 miles off Portland lightship. No anxiety was felt for it. Transatlantic planes generally fly high and the airmen in the Pathfinder had a "ceiling" of 6,000 feet, which if attained would keep them out of earshot and sight.

FRENCH ORATORS TO AIR VIEWS ON DEBTS

Paris—(AP)—The French cabinet today decided to open the flood gates Thursday on oratory in the chamber of deputies relating to the ratification of the debt accords with America and Great Britain.

Premier Poincare himself will be the first speaker. He indicated it probably would take him the entire first day to review the situation for the chamber, which will be asked to-night to leave Thursday and the succeeding days of its calendar for the debt discussions.

The premier already has spoken for six days in favor of the accord before the chambers finance and foreign affairs committees, both of which later voted in favor of anti-government resolutions expressing necessity for a safeguard reservation in the ratifications.

JAP EMPEROR ACCEPTS UCHIDA'S RESIGNATION

Tokio—(AP)—The emperor today accepted the resignation of Count Yasuoka Uchida from the privy council. The count, who signed the Kellogg anti-war pact for Japan at the Paris ceremony, had been criticized in the council in connection with the wording of the pact.

The former Japanese opposition, now the government party, or Minseito, objected to the phrase, "in the names of their respective peoples," which they claimed violated the prerogatives of the emperor. Uchida tendered his resignation June 26, preceding the fall of the government of premier Baron Tanaka.

Neenah Woman Sets Pace In Golf Tourney

Mrs. Neale Spoor, Neenah, led the early qualifiers in the annual Ladies Northeastern Golf association tournament which started Tuesday morning on the Butte des Morts golf course. She scored a gross count of 107, which, with her handicap, gave her a net of 78.

Mrs. Stanley Stone, Green Lake, defending champion, had low gross score for the 18 holes and second low net score among the early finishers. She took 43 going out and a 43 coming in for a total of 91. Her six stroke handicap gave her an 85 for net score.

Fifty-one women are entered in the qualifying rounds, the low 16 to compete for the championship. The course was wet and slow after the heavy rain Monday evening and caused the golfers no end of trouble. The first round in the various flights will get under way by 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The second round will be played Wednesday afternoon with finals in all flights Thursday.

Events also are planned for the non-qualifiers and there will be driving, approaching and putting contests, together with a flag tournament of nine holes for which every one is eligible.

DRUNKEN DRIVER PAYS FINE OF $25

Judge Does Not Revoke Drivers' License; Companion Also Fined

Pleading guilty to drunken driving, George Curtis, who lives near the old county workhouse just beyond the Winnebago-co line, was fined $25 and costs by Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court Tuesday morning.

Pointing out that this was the first time Curtis had been in court on a charge of this kind, the judge ruled that Curtis' driving license would not be revoked. He warned Curtis, however, that if he is ever caught in court again on a similar charge, his license will be taken away.

B. S. O'Connell, who was with Curtis when he was arrested Sunday afternoon by Charles Steidl, motorcycle officer, was fined $5 and costs by Judge Heinemann when he pleaded guilty of drunkenness.

The two men were arrested by Officer Steidl after he had chased them along Highways 76 and 26. He said he was first attracted by the erratic manner in which the car was being driven. He stopped and warned Curtis to get off the road. Curtis refused and went on his way. Steidl said, until the officer stopped him a second time. Then he became abusive and wanted to fight, according to the officer.

Finally he backed his car into a ditch and Officer Steidl then called Sheriff Fred W. Giese and the pair was taken to the county jail. Later they were released.

RUMOR SALTIS MAY LOSE HIS WISCONSIN ESTATE

Chicago—(AP)—Joe Saltis, south side beer baron, was absent today when the roll was called for commitment to jail and his attorney explained that he was involved in foreclosure proceedings in Wisconsin.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, who sentenced Saltis to 30 days for beer running, granted a stay of execution until next Monday. Mention of foreclosure proceedings gave rise to immediate rumors that Saltis was losing his purported elaborate country estate in Wisconsin because of lack of funds.

NORMAL REGENTS IN DEBATE OVER FUNDS

Madison—(AP)—The state board of normal school regents, meeting here today, discussed means of carrying on the work of the state's nine teachers colleges until funds are available from new appropriations. The fiscal year for the state ended June 30. The legislature has not as yet given final approval to the new appropriations for those institutions.

FORTUNE IN OPIUM SEIZED WITH BAGGAGE

Drug Found in Trunks of Chinese Vice Consul's
Wife Worth Million

San Francisco—(AP)—Eleven pieces of baggage brought from China to San Francisco by Mrs. Susie Ying Kao, daughter of the Chinese minister to Cuba and wife of the Chinese vice consul here, disgorged a fortune in opium when opened late yesterday by customs officials.

The baggage, which was seized last Friday as the result of reports received from representatives in China of the United States treasury department, was opened upon instructions from Washington that Mrs. Kao was not entitled to diplomatic privileges.

Customs officers opened the trunks and suitcases in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Kao and their attorneys, who protested that the act was a violation of a Chinese-American treaty. Mrs. Kao was not detained.

The value of the opium was fixed by customs officers at $1,000,000. Three other trunks, said to contain only personal property of the diplomat's wife were not opened, but were held by customs agents pending further instructions from the treasury department.

PROTESTS INNOCENCE
Mrs. Kao declared the opium was not her property and that she had not known the trunks contained the drug. She said she had been persuaded by "wealthy and influential friends in China" to bring the 11 pieces of baggage into San Francisco under diplomatic status and believed that they had contained presents for friends in this country.

Asked to name the persons in China to whom she had referred, Mrs. Kao, refused saying that since she knew the trunks contained opium her life would be endangered by revealing the owners' names.

Customs agents declared that the opium was the property of a huge smuggling ring. They said it had been made in Macao, Portuguese China, and was the most expensive and desirable brand obtainable. This same brand of opium figured in a seizure several months ago, they said, as the result of which William Rosa, clerk of the United States district court of Hawaii, and two wealthy Honolulu Chinese were sent to federal prison.

DEMAND REFERENDUM ON NEW CIGARET TAX

Detroit—(AP)—Petitions, which it is said bear 97,106 signatures, asking a referendum on the state cigarette tax passed by the last legislature, were filed with the Wayne-co clerk today. A total of 68,000 signatures would have been sufficient to obtain a referendum. The tax measure would be effective Aug. 23, placing a one-cent tax on each 10 cigarettes. Should the petitions be found to carry the required number of signatures, the measure will be submitted to the voters at the general election in November, 1930.

GRAND JURY READY FOR BANK INQUIRY

Clears Away Routine Matters Preparatory to Probe in Alabama

Birmingham, Ala.—(AP)—Routine investigation was being cleared by a Jefferson-co grand jury today preparatory to opening of a probe into bank conditions in the Birmingham district. The inquiry being brought about by the closing of five banks here in the past two weeks.

Indications were that the bank probe would be taken by the grand jury tomorrow or Friday.

The banking situation was called to the attention of the inquisitorial body yesterday in the charge to the jury by Judge Russell J. McElroy, who told the jurors that they were fully empowered to conduct an investigation and "if the evidence warrants to return indictments."

Of the five banks which have closed, at least three are declared to be solvent and able to pay depositors dollar for dollar. Banks forced to close were The Southside bank, the Leeds State bank, the Woodlawn Savings bank, the City bank and Trust company, and the Avondale Bank and Savings company.

ASSAULT INQUIRY MAY BE TRAIL TO SLAYERS

Mainly, Ia.—(AP)—State officials have begun an investigation of the assault and robbery of Samuel Holland, a recluse, to determine its possible connection with the slaying of two other hermits during the past month.

Holland reported that an unidentified man beat him unconscious at his home and robbed him.

W. Scott Rouse, who had been a recluse near Montour, Iowa, for 60 years, was beaten to death and robbed in his shack early last week. George Hardy, rural storekeeper who also lived as a recluse, recently was slain near Fargo, Iowa.

BRITISH SUB AND CREW OF 21 ARE SUNK

No Hope to Rescue Seamen Alive, Lord of Admiralty Tells Commons

2 ESCAPE FROM DEATH
Men in Second Submarine Safe—Full Details
Still Lacking

London—The first lord of the admiralty announced in the house of commons this afternoon that no hope could be entertained that the remainder of the crew of the submarine H-47 could be rescued alive.

The first lord added that the salvage of the H-47 in deep water was no improbable. The best diving apparatus available had been dispatched to the scene.

London—(AP)—The British submarine H-47, with 21 of her crew believed dead or trapped within her, today was sunk in 270 feet of water in St. George's channel off the Pembroke coast to the west of Fifth-guards.

The undersea craft was struck by the submarine L-12, a larger vessel, and sank so quickly that only two of her normal crew of 23 were saved. These were Lieut. R. J. Gardner, her commanding officer, and Sidney Cleburne of Devonport, telegraph operator, both of whom presumably were in her conning tower.

The L-12 lost one man, Charles Edward Bull, chief signaler, who is missing while Arthur Sampson, a seaman, was in a critical condition from injuries he suffered in the crash.

As soon as word of the disaster was received, the dock yard tug Resolve and trawler hulkard prepared to go to set with salvage gear from Portsmouth.

DETAILS LACKING
Details of the circumstances under which the disaster took place or how badly the submarine was smashed when she went down were lacking in the first announcement by the admiralty.

It appeared, however, that the 4-47 sank in about 270 feet of water, or nearly three times that in which the American submarine S-4 sank in 1927, and considerably deeper than that to which the S-51 sank in 1925. Salvage operations at such a depth

It is believed that today's disaster the H-47 sank after a collision with the L-12 this morning about 22 miles to the northward of small lighthouses and about 20 miles due west from fishguard.

Beyond the details of the two men rescued from the stricken ship and the two aboard the L-12 involved, one being missing and the other critically injured, the admiralty had no further details.

ATTEMPT AT SALVAGE

Arrangements were being made with all dispatch to attempt salvage of the H-47 despite the depth of the water in which it sank. The naval ball planned tonight at the town hall of Torquay has been cancelled by the Atlantic fleet, who acted when the news of the submarine disaster reached him.

It would be exceedingly difficult, occurred while the various flotillas which have been taking part in com-

TORCH SLAYER FACES COURT NEXT OCTOBER

The girl stood silent when she was arraigned before Justice of the Peace H. D. Davis. She was represented by Attorney Carl W. Hadley.

Miss Weaver will be confined in jail at Toulon until the grand jury meets and, if indicted, will stand trial in the Stark-co circuit court.

California Aviators Nearing Endurance Record

REACH MARK TODAY IF NOT FORCED DOWN

Experts Predict Plane May Stay Aloft 200 Hours or Longer

Culver City, Calif. — Sweeping across the sky today, the endurance flight, L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart piloted their single motored bi-plane past the mark of 168 hours, 30 minutes at 8 o'clock a. m. today. There was no indication of weakening on the part of craft or men as they flew toward the record of 174 hours, 59 seconds.

One hundred gallons of fuel was transferred to the endurance plane at 8:45 a. m. in the twenty-first refueling contact of the flight which started at 7:29:30 last Tuesday.

The question of which would give out first, the fliers or the motor, kept ground officials and observers guessing. The pilots had no complaint, although a call late yesterday for rubbing alcohol led ground workers to suspect the fliers were becoming fatigued.

MAY FLY 200 HOURS

Airport officials declared that if the fliers would stay up with the motor the flight might last 400 hours. They also declared 200 hours might be regarded as a conservative estimate of the length of time both engine and pilots might last.

Crowds which were reluctant to leave the field late last night began to gather again with the dawn.

Early today the 220-horsepower motor had shown no signs of weakening under the strain. Ground officials yesterday began making smaller and more frequent refuelings in order to lessen the possibility of over-burdening the craft.

There had been not so much as a misfire of its engine, the fliers reported.

Night fogs which caused the pilots much worry during the early stages of their quest, continued to roll in from the ocean, but at a higher altitude, allowing the fliers to wing their way beneath the mist.

As the biplane swung past the eighth hour of flight at 8:29 a. m. a light fog was rolling from the ocean. This was not viewed as a serious handicap, however. Arrangements went forward to refuel the ship at 3:30 p. m.

SCHEIDER GOES TO INDIAN GROUP MEET

Congressman George J. Schneider left Tuesday morning for Keshena where he was to join the senate Indian affairs investigating subcommittee which was to inspect the Menominee Indian reservation.

The committee held a hearing at Madison Monday, which was attended by the local congressman, and at that time members of the Menominee tribe testified. Since the testimony regarding the Menominee reservation was completed at Madison it was unnecessary to hold the scheduled hearing at Keshena and the committee will merely make an inspection and then proceed to Lac du Flambeau where a hearing is to be held Wednesday. On Thursday the committee will go to Hayward where another hearing will be held. Congressman Schneider will return to Appleton the latter part of the week.

After completing the hearings in Wisconsin the committee will go to Iowa and Nebraska where hearings will be held on reservations.

STECKER STILL LEADS ADELPHIANS TOURNEY

Gilbert Stecker still leads members of the Adelpheans club in the inter-club tennis tournament. He is being followed closely by his cousin, Earl Stecker, whom he defeated a week ago two out of three sets. Twelve members of the club are competing in the tourney which opened several weeks ago. As soon as the tennis tourney is completed a golf tourney will be held.

VALLEY SCOUTS LEAVE FOR WORLD "JAMBOREE"

Donald Rusch and George Bretting, valley council boy scouts of Troop 9, Menasha, left Tuesday morning for Rockford, Ill., to enter the Rockford council training camp with other scouts in that vicinity for a week of training preliminary to sailing for Arrowe Park, Birkenhead, England, where they will attend the International "Jamboree."

The scouts will receive all necessary equipment for making the trip, and will spend a week in learning necessary camping methods. They will be directed by Rockford scout heads. The latter part of this week the group will leave Chicago to board a train for Montreal, Canada, from which port they will sail early next week.

ADELPHIANS ARRANGE PLANS FOR PROJECTS

A tentative program of activities for the remainder of the summer was discussed at a meeting of the Adelpheans club of the Y. M. C. A. at the association building Monday evening. A trip to Chicago on Labor Day and a boat excursion which will be given the latter part of this month, are the two major activities on the program. A report on the tennis tournament also was heard.

Drunk Is Fined
Joseph Stevens, 205 First-st., Menasha, was fined $5 and costs by Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court Tuesday morning when he pleaded guilty of drunkenness. He was arrested at 12:45 Tuesday morning on S. Cherry-st. by Officer Paul Arnold.

ARE WOMEN DRIVERS MORE CAREFUL THAN MEN? LOOK AT THIS

Washington — (AP) — The old-fashioned cartoonist, who still shares the general masculine belief in the inability of women to drive automobiles, was given a severe shock today in figures made public by the District of Columbia Traffic bureau.

The bureau has been conducting an intensive campaign for several weeks in an effort to cut down the heavy toll of casualties in traffic accidents. Of 859 persons arrested for various violations of the traffic rules since July 1, only 28 were women.

That's less than 3.3 per cent of the total and indicates, according to ardent feminist calculators, that women are about 30 times as good as men when it comes to driving automobiles. The standpointers for the old doctrine on the other hand, argue that it merely goes to show that most traffic policemen are men of a suspiciously susceptible nature, that women drivers (so-called) are exclusively an unscrupulously able to turn that nature to their own ends, and that anyway, the subject under consideration is not ability to drive automobiles but ability to avoid charges of violating traffic rules.

COMMITTEE WHICH PROBED BELDEN TO REPORT TO SOLONS

Consideration of Findings Is One of First Matters on Calendar

Madison — (AP) — A report by the Assembly's judiciary committee on its investigation into the conduct of Circuit Judge E. Belden Belden will be among the first duties of the committee after the legislature reconvened Tuesday.

The committee's inquiry was completed just before both houses adjourned for a ten-day vacation June 29. The documents and evidence presented have been compiled during vacation, and will be ready for the committee's consideration on its return to Madison.

Under the resolution authorizing the investigation, the committee was instructed to report to the Assembly whether or not impeachment proceedings should be instituted against Judge Belden.

Charges were filed against Belden by Maceo M. Kueny, who is a member of both the Kenosha county board, and of the general strike committee, of the locked-out Allen-A. Knitters at Kenosha.

William F. Quick, Milwaukee, former socialist state senator, conducted the case against Belden before the committee. Quick placed much emphasis on the fact that Judge Belden had borrowed $20,000 from Z. G. Simmons, of the Simmons company, Kenosha, and the loan was never repaid.

Judge Belden, testifying in his own behalf, readily admitted he had never repaid the loan. Thomas M. Kearney, Jr., Racine, counsel for Belden, contended the loan was a personal matter, and had no bearing on the Judge's fitness to occupy the bench.

Another charge against Belden was that he endeavored to have the Kenosha board vote $40,000 for a grand jury investigation, although the maximum appropriation allowed by law is $10,000.

This charge Belden denied. He also denied a statement that in 1921 he proposed to Nicholas Roders, chairman of the board, that $200 be added to the costs of each person indicted by the grand jury, in order to raise $10,000 with which to pay for services of private detectives.

ATLANTAN CHOSEN RULER OF B. P. O. E.

Col. Walter P. Andrews Unanimously Elected at Los Angeles Conclave

Los Angeles — (AP) — Col. Walter Pemberton Andrews, past exalted ruler of Lodge No. 78, Atlanta, Ga., today was unanimously elected grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in the executive session of the sixty-fifth convention here.

Colonel Andrews in 1913 was appointed by President Woodrow Wilson to be commissioner-general to the Mediterranean and Balkan states in the interest of the Panama-Pacific exposition.

J. Edgar Masters of Charleston, Pa., was re-elected grand secretary; Lloyd Maxwell of Chicago, a life member of the Marshalltown, Iowa, Lodge No. 312, grand treasurer; and A. Charles Stewart, Frostburg, Md., grand trustee.

Delegates to the convention got down to business here today after a round of sports, social events and welcoming ceremonies incidental to the opening of the annual meeting.

COUP FAILS IN RUMANIA; REBELS HELD

Former Crown Prince Carol Believed to Have No Part in Attempted Coup

Vienna — (AP) — The Peasant government of Rumania, headed by Iuliu Maniu, premier, appeared today to have weathered successfully a projected military coup d'etat and to be entrenched more firmly than ever at Bucharest.

As a result of strict censorship the only direct advice obtainable were contained in an official government communique, which said:

"Some civil agitators, known for a long time to the authorities as men without scruple or worth, organized a ridiculous plot against the form of the state without causing the least disorder."

"The head conspirator is former Col. August Stojka. They could achieve nothing except for the adhesion of two officers, Captain Cambray and Lieutenant Georgescu. Some factory workmen also joined the plotters. All are arrested."

"Investigations are being continued. All sensational reports of disorders are without foundation and perfect quiet reigns in the country. Order is secured in all particulars and the army is as ever at its post."

Other reports, notably those received from travelers arriving here from the Rumanian capital were more disquieting but even they indicated the government had the situation well in hand.

GOVERNMENT BIDDING TIME

The version of the affair generally accepted here was that a well-bolstered plot existed to overthrow the Maniu government reinstating the Liberal regime which it ousted, or a military dictatorship. The government learned of the plot some time back, but refrained from making arrests until the conspirators were ready to strike and all were obtainable.

On Saturday night the authorities arrested General Brosteanu, commander of one of the frontier armies and about 40 others, including a number of civilian officials who were said to have handed arms and ammunition to the rebels from the arsenal.

Among names mentioned in connection with the plot was that of former Minister General Angelescu, who was said to have been a prime mover with the object of making himself dictator until further developments which might or might not have placed Carol on the throne. It was said the conspirators hoped for the support of former Minister Madarescu, former adjutant to King Ferdinand, Paul Angelescu and former Minister Miercescu.

ALL QUIET TODAY

Bucharest, Rumania — (AP) — There was absolute quiet throughout Rumania today while the authorities continued investigations into a plot against the government which was foiled by the arrest of several army officers.

Reports were current here that the government was put on the scent of the plot Saturday night when two officers who attended a secret meeting of the military conspirators left under plausible pretexts and went straight to the minister of war. They divulged the plot and thus enabled the government to watch the movements of the conspirators.

CANINE VETERAN OF WORLD WAR BURIED IN MILITARY GRAVE

West Orange, N. J. — (AP) — A stray dog that became a battle-scarred veteran of the A. E. F. today lies in a military grave in a local cemetery.

His tombstone bears the epitaph: "Rags—Wounded in action with the American Expeditionary forces." The lone mourner at his funeral yesterday was Joseph L. Book, a retired member of the East Orange Fire department, to which "Rags" had attached himself during the years following his return from the war.

Book said the dog joined an engineers regiment one morning in the Argonne, scampered along with the regiment whenever it went into action and, trotted proudly at its head on the march into Germany. The dog was slightly wounded by shrapnel and severely shell-shocked. He died a natural death and Book purchased a satin-lined casket about which he wrapped an American flag.

CAREER MAN PROMOTED TO TREASURY POSITION

Washington — (AP) — Promoted from the ranks of "career men" in the service, Frank X. A. Eble has been appointed commissioner of customs in the treasury department.

Born at Minesville, Pa., he joined the war loan staff of the secretary of the treasury after the World war. He became identified with the customs work in 1922 through his appointment as treasury agent with headquarters in Berlin, where he has served as district chief for the greater part of the last six years.

CAROL NOT CONCERNED

Paris — (AP) — Rumanian circles in Paris and French police entrusted with the task of "protecting" foreign princes and dignitaries are of the opinion that former Crown Prince Carol is not concerned in the plot unearthed at Bucharest against the security of the state. Three officers and a few workmen are under arrest at Bucharest.

The French police even professed to be ignorant of Carol's present whereabouts, although they were responsible for the information a few days ago that he was preparing to leave for Yugoslavia to meet his divorced wife Princess Helen and his son King Michael.

Carol was not to be found today at the palace hotel in the Champs Elysees where he makes his home while in Paris. The police were unable to decline to say whether he was at his villa in Normandy or in his chateau in the Belgian Ardennes where he spent last summer.

The Yugoslavian legation avers that no visa for a visit to Yugoslavia has been requested for a passport bearing the name of either Ex-Crown Prince Carol Hohenzollern or Mr. Carol Caraiman — the name adopted by Carol when he took up his residence in France after he had relinquished his rights to the throne Rumania in 1927.

Princess Helen is now at Bled, the summer home of Yugoslav Royalty, but it is not known in Paris whether she took her youthful son the king along with her.

Severe Heat Wave Kills 7 Persons

Many Others Prostrated—Numerous Drownings Reported in U. S.

New York — (AP) — Seven deaths and numerous prostrations were recorded today as the second severe heat wave of the summer continued unabated in the east and Midwest.

The period, of torrid weather, which descended over much of the country Sunday, increased in intensity yesterday and deaths directly attributed to the heat occurred in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Wilmington, Del., and Lynn, Mass. Some other persons died of drowning while seeking relief in the water from the sweltering temperatures.

The hottest place in the country, according to weather bureau reports, was Phoenix, Ariz., where a temperature of 109 degrees was recorded. The Pacific coast the Rocky mountain district and the northwest escaped the wave of scorching heat.

In Washington the temperature reached 97 degrees, 20 degrees above the average for the day; in Baltimore it was 96; Philadelphia 93; New York 89; Chicago and Kansas City 86.

Beaches in the New York area were jammed with humanity in search of relief from the heat and high humidity that caused three deaths and more than a dozen prostrations. Seven persons were drowned.

In Philadelphia, after a day in which two persons died of the heat and several were overcome, relief was brought by rain. One death and five prostrations occurred in Washington. Most of New England suffered with temperatures that passed the 90 mark.

ISOLATION ACTION BY U. S. WORRIES CHINESE

Shanghai, China — (AP) — The state department executive order restricting the entrance of all persons into the United States from China or the Philippines islands because of cerebro spinal meningitis in those countries was stated to be little understood here.

It is causing uneasiness among steamship companies operating in the trans-Pacific service since they fear that the order forbids all classes of travel from the countries concerned.

The Shanghai foreign health authorities today stated that the number of cases had declined in recent weeks, although the deaths in hospital cases continue to average slightly more than one daily. The number of cases in the native city is unknown, but is believed considerable although declining in recent months.

DON'T THANK JUDGE FOR SENTENCE—IT ISN'T BEING DONE

Fond du Lac — (AP) — Words of gratitude may bring a penalty instead of a reward. It all depends on the way in which they are used.

Take the case of William Grauer, who was sentenced to five days in county jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly yesterday. On hearing the sentence, he said "much obliged."

"Ten days more for contempt," countered Judge H. M. Fellenz, adding that the extra 10 days were not so much because of what Grauer had said but because of how he said it.

To add a touch of the dramatic, Grauer then offered to fight the judge. That raised the contempt sentence to 60 days and the total to 65.

CHARGE ARCHITECT DROVE WHEN DRUNK

E. A. Wettengel Pleads Not Guilty; Arrested Last Wednesday Night

E. A. Wettengel, 116 S. Pierce-ave, local architect, was arraigned in municipal court Monday afternoon before Judge Fred V. Heinemann on a charge of drunken driving.

He pleaded not guilty, furnished $50 bonds and his trial will be set later by the judge.

Wettengel was arrested last Wednesday evening on Highway 41 between Kaukauna and Kimberly by Andrew Miller, county motorcycle officer. Miller arrested Wettengel, he said after he saw Wettengel, car veer in an erratic manner from one side of the road to the other in a way that threatened other motorists.

15 SCHOLARSHIPS ARE OFFERED TO 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

University of Wisconsin to Make Awards for Best Essays by Boys

Regents of the University of Wisconsin have made available 15 scholarships of $100 each for first year Wisconsin students in the short courses in agriculture according to word received by Gus Sell, county agent. Mr. Sell is urging 4-H club members to enter the contest. Special letters informing them of the chance to enter the test are being issued this week.

The avowed purpose of these scholarships is to aid in the higher training of country youth with that such training will tend to foster more effectively rural leadership in Wisconsin. During the past five or six years the economic disparity between the returns from farm labor and city workers has been so disadvantageous to the rural dweller that many of the farm boys have been unable to attend school in preparation for farming vocations. This menace to future rural leadership exists in the drawing of the talent, the most progressive of our farm youth to the city. It is hoped that these scholarships may encourage a few of these young men of this group to prepare for the future as rural leaders.

This course is for 15 weeks beginning Nov. 13 and continuing until March 14. This scholarship will meet, the chief part of the winter expenses in becoming trained for farming. These scholarships are available for the fall of 1929. Persons accepting scholarships pledges himself to attend the three terms unless prevented by illness or other unavoidable causes. The Committee has made plans for the awarding of the scholarships as follows:

HERE ARE RULES

A boy desiring to enter the short course of the college of agriculture at Madison, to study general farming, cow-testing, agricultural engineering, farm business, poultry or horticulture this fall should do as follows:

1. Write on paper approximately 8 1/2 by 11 inches, in his own handwriting, a story on "Agriculture and My Future." Discuss, at least, the following points: (a) What I have done in the field of agriculture, (b) Why I wish to make my future in agriculture, (c) Reason the Scholarship is desired, (d) What I see ahead in agriculture.

2. Send the story to Dean J. A. James, Agriculture Hall, Madison, Wis., with a photograph or kodak picture of yourself. Be sure the essay reaches Madison on or before Oct. 1, 1929.

3. Have at least four persons write Dean P. A. James, a letter of recommendation. Such persons are suggested; as the county agent, pastor, a former teacher, a business man, a banker, a neighbor or any other person of your acquaintance not a relative. Those letters should reach Madison on or before Oct. 1, 1929.

The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of the story 75 per cent and the personal data and reference reports 25 per cent.

FEWER BIRTHS AND MORE DEATHS WERE REPORTED IN 1929

A total of $1,337.50 is to be mailed out this week in checks to Outagamie county physicians, ministers and others who furnished vital statistics reports during the year ending June 30, 1929, to the state department of health. In the previous year payments totaled $1,218.85.

The checks will be sent out by Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, in accordance with a report received by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, from Dr. C. A. Harper, chairman of the state board of health. Payments are made to the state department of health in accordance with the number of reports sent to the state.

The report received by Mr. Hantschel, shows there were 2,923 births reported in the year ending in June as compared with 2,960 in the previous year. A total of 1,511 deaths were reported as compared to 1,412 in 1928. Marriages in the 1929 fiscal year totaled 839 against 842 in the same period in 1928.

STATE CONSTRUCTION WORK IS ON DECLINE

The amount of new construction and engineering contracts awarded in the state during the week of June 22 to 28 was $2,911,700, according to a report of the F. W. Dodge corporation of New York city. This was a decline of approximately $1,000,000 from the preceding week's total and is the first noticeable decrease in the past six weeks.

The week's contracts brought the total for the month to $16,633,300. This is a decrease of 25 per cent from the total for the preceding month, but only a 9 per cent decrease from the total of June, 1928. The daily average for the first six months of 1929 is $566,400 as compared with a $566,700 average for the corresponding period of last year.

LIGHTNING HITS BARN AND CAUSES LOSS OF $5,000

Hay, Grain and Machinery Destroyed; All Stock is Saved

More than a $5,000 loss was sustained at the Edward Dietz farm, route 3, Appleton, in the town of Elington about 6:30 Monday evening, starting a fire which destroyed the structure. The loss was practically all covered by insurance, according to Mr. Dietz, who has not yet made plans to rebuild.

As soon as the fire started the Dietz family started moving stock from the barn, and all the animals were saved. However, about half of this year's hay crop, which already had been harvested and stored, was destroyed, along with about 200 bushels of oats, 75 bushels of barley and 40 bushels of wheat. Considerable farm machinery stored in the building was destroyed.

The Hortonville fire department responded to a call for help, and assisted in keeping the flames from spreading to other buildings. A crew of friends and neighbors worked all night protecting nearby buildings. The fire was nearly burned out by Tuesday morning.

WATSON ASKS MORE SPEED FOR TARIFF

Would Hasten Work to Have Bill Ready When Congress Comes Back

Washington—(AP)—Speeding up of the tariff bill work by the senate finance committee to insure its preparation for the senate by the time the recess ends Aug. 19, is demanded by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader.

His move is seen as the first step in an administration effort to wind up the tariff contest before the regular session opens in December. Chairman Smoot of the committee, has been apprehensive of late that the bill wouldn't be ready by Aug. 15.

President Hoover wants this highly controversial legislation out of the way and on the statute books before the biennial congressional campaigns begin next spring. The Republicans want to keep the impending tariff struggle in the senate out of that campaign, if possible.

Democrats have given informal assurance that they will cooperate to see that the tariff bill is acted upon during the extra session. But the Republican Independents who are organizing in opposition to the House measure have given no indication that they are in a hurry to see the legislation enacted.

EXPECT LONG DEBATE
The senate tariff contest is more than a month away but there are many predictions already of stormy days and perhaps lengthy debate. Advocates of the export debenture principle of farm relief who lost out in the agricultural legislation are determined to put their plan into the tariff bill and this issue alone may result in several weeks of dispute.

Altogether the outlook is dubious and Senator Watson, the administration pilot in the senate, is getting out the whip to apply with the spurs in the drive to get the issue settled before December.

Meanwhile, the finance committee is going ahead with its hearings preparatory to closing the doors next week for the actual rewriting of the House measure.

Even before this work is begun, rumors are floating about the senate corridors of the prospective form of revision to be made in the House bill. Some of the rumors say that the Republican administration group which controls the finance committee is going to wipe out the increases ordered by the House in the tariffs on building materials, including lumber, brick, cedar, maple and black lumber and cement, but these are only rumors, so far.

CHANCELLOR REVEALS ATTITUDE ON DEBTS

London—(AP)—Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, in reply to a question in the house of commons today on the reparations report indicated the attitude of the Labor government.

"The house will realize," he said, "that this country is in no way committed to acceptance of the recommendations of the Young committee. They are to be the subject of discussion at the forthcoming international conference."

Referring to the reminder sent to the French government recently by the former chancellor of the exchequer, Winston Churchill, as to its liability to make equal payments to this country and America, Mr. Snowden said:

"We are watching with very considerable interest the discussions that are going on at Paris with regard to this matter. I cannot say anything further at the moment than this: If circumstances contemplated in this supplementary question should arise the government would certainly insist on the conditions laid down by Mr. Churchill."

KILLS CHILD BECAUSE SHE CAN'T SUPPORT IT

Los Angeles—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine Valenti, 39, has confessed that she had set fire to a carriage in which her 8-month-old baby, Dominick, lay asleep. The child was burned to death.

Police said today the mother gave as the reason for her act her inability to afford placing the baby in a nursery while she worked. She was held on a charge of murder.

"We didn't have any money, and the baby needed milk. I wanted to go to work," police quoted the woman, "and the baby was in the way. I couldn't afford to put him in a nursery so I thought that was the best way out."

Sabatania Valenti, husband of the woman, is employed as a laborer by a motion picture producing concern.

WOMEN TO FORGET CARES ON ACHIEVEMENT DAY

Churning, baking, and setting hens will be forgotten by the women of Outagamie county Wednesday when they drive dull care away and indulge in their big fling of the year, Achievement Day. On this day all members of the 24 home economics groups in the county get together for a program of speeches, music, dramatics, and general jollification, and do their best to forget the worries of farm

This year the program, to begin at 10 o'clock, will include an address by Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, state leader, and talks by G. A. Sell, county agent, and Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader. Four county groups will present plays, Mrs. John J. Jr., will read and Mrs. Della Robertson and Miss Virginia Steffen will offer instrumental solos.

County men and 4-H club girls are also asked. Dinner will be served by members of the Methodist church,

CAN'T AGREE ON JOINT OWNERSHIP; THEY DIVIDE BOAT

Berlin—(AP)—Joint ownership and operation of a boat wasn't satisfactory. So John Gosch, 10, sawed it in two, took one half and left the other for his pal, Ardin Ceman, 11.

The boys found an 18-foot skiff floating down Fox river. For a while they played together with it, but the joint ownership system was annoying. John tried to buy Ardin's interest but was refused. Ardin's offer was met similarly. Then John followed Solomon's advice.

"I'm going to board up the end," John said when asked what he would do with half a boat.

SENATORS MOVING NORTH IN PROBE IN INDIAN AREAS

General Need of Wisconsin
Redmen Outlined at Madison Meeting

Madison—(AP)—With general needs of the Wisconsin Indian outlined and a specific investigation of the southern Wisconsin Indian made, the sub-committee on Indian affairs of the United States senate started north today to continue its study.

The investigation party, headed by Senators Lynn Frazier North Dakota; Burton K. Wheeler, Montana, and Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin, expects to reach the Lac du Flambeau region tonight. The group hopes to make a brief investigation of the Menominee reservation near Shawano on route.

Conditions on the northern Wisconsin reservations are expected to be aired at a meeting Wednesday at Lac du Flambeau and the committee then will go to Hayward to close its Wisconsin study Thursday. The body then will move into Nebraskas and continue Indian affairs investigations, ending its study in Montana, Aug. 1.

Eleven witnesses were heard by the sub-committee at its Madison meeting yesterday. Need for hospitals, greater sanitary conditions and school improvements were outlined, as well as a minute probe into affairs on the Menominee reservation.

W. R. Byer, superintendent, was subjected to long questioning, during which congressman George Schneider, Appleton, brought out that the federal prohibition department "has done nothing to remedy the liquor situation near the reservation except on request of the agent." Besides the liquor problem, characterized as bad, the committee briefly touched on the water power question and conduct of the school.

"The key man responsible for the maladministration of Indian affairs for the last 15 or 18 years is Edward B. Merrill," Col. John J. Hannan, president of the state board of control, told the committee. Merrill was named assistant solicitor of the department of interior. Colonel Hannan urged the committee to make a thorough study of the situation, saying the government must rectify its wrongs to Indians.

HOOVER TRYING TO DETERMINE CAUSE OF POSTAL LOSSES

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover wants to know just what it is that causes the huge annual deficits in the government's big postal business and how the losses can be reduced.

Figures now being compiled for the last fiscal year's operations by the postoffice department are expected to show a deficit considerably in excess of $100,000,000 and Assistant Postmaster General Tilton has been assigned the task of making a detailed survey looking to the devising of means of effecting economies.

The president's concern over the situation was disclosed after his first conference with the full administrative staff of the department, including Postmaster General Brown and the four assistant postmasters general. The conference discussed means of putting the department on a more nearly self-sustaining basis and considered air mail problems.

Brown disclosed, but did not consider the raising of postal rates.

The department's deficit in 1920 was $17,370,430, and it jumped the next year to $137,502,398. In 1926 the deficit was down to $19,973,373, but it rose in 1927 to $31,506,200 and in 1928 to $32,121,095. For 1929 Comptroller William Buffington is expected to report a figure comparable to that of 1921, because of increased compensation granted to railroads for carrying the mails, advances in the pay of employees and decreases in postal rates.

"U" SUMMER SESSION SETS ATTENDANCE MARK

Madison—(AP)—All-time record for attendance at the University of Wisconsin summer session was established with enrollments Saturday.

The figure stood at 5,136 or 21 more than the previous record enrollment in 1927 of 5,165. Miss Georgia Martin, assistant registrar, announced.

This mark was achieved, although the most stringent admission requirements ever enforced were in use for the first time this year, Miss Martin said.

All students from other institutions were required to present certificates from members of the faculty in such institutions showing that the student was in good standing.

The record enrollment exceeds last year's figure of 5,065 by 121 and brings the university enrollment for the year to 14,932, since 9,746 students were registered during the first and second semesters.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE HAS OPPORTUNITY TO WIN FIDAC MEDAL

Local Institution Gets Invitation to Apply for Award

With its second Good Fellowship student of Europe, Lawrence college has a chance for the Fidac medal, to be awarded by the Federation Inter-allees des Anciens Combattants to the school in each country in the world which has done the most toward promoting international friendship and better understanding. The invitation to apply for the medal was received in a letter from the woman's auxiliary of the federation. The writer congratulated the Lawrence student body on the splendid effort it is making to give better understanding of the European problems and conditions of life to the youth of America.

That Lawrence's work in this field is becoming noticed is indicated by a letter from Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, who wrote Fred Trezise, secretary of the student-to-Europe committee, that he was personally interested in Lawrence's project, and that he congratulated Lawrence on the progress it is making in this work.

This spring Lawrence sent its second Good Fellowship student to Europe on money raised within the student and faculty groups. A year ago Miss Ellen Tuton, Palmyra first Lawrence envoy to the Old World, returned from a year and a half of study, this spring Edgar Koch, Oshkosh, left on a similar mission. At present he is studying in the international school of politics at Geneva, Switzerland.

In addition to this world peace project, several other things contribute to Lawrence's chance for the medal. Dr. Louis Baker of the foreign language department was decorated with the Royal Order of the Star of Roumania for singular leadership in the international conference on education held at Bucharest a year ago.

Both members of the crew are veteran aviators and Yancey is an expert navigator, with a ship master's license, and several years seafaring experience.

Williams is a mechanical engineer and has been associated with aviation since a youth when he and his brother built and flew a plane near their home in Brooklyn. He is 35 years old and married. During the war he served as an instructor, afterward becoming a civilian instructor for the Curtiss flying service. In 1927 and 1928 with Clarence Chamberlin, he made several unsuccessful attempts to set an endurance flight record. He is better identified with a Rome flight project last year when he was chosen co-pilot by Cesare Sabelli, in his proposed flight which was abandoned.

Captain Yancey, who is 38, was born in Chicago. He went to sea and worked his way from cabin boy to master mariner. A few years ago he left the sea to enter aviation as a navigator. A few years ago he left navigation and teacher of navigation to pilots. Mrs. Yancey was at Old Orchard to witness the start yesterday.

Rome—(AP)—Interest increased here today by leaps and bounds in the flight the airplane Pathfinder was believed to be making from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome.

Premier Mussolini gave orders he was to be informed immediately of any developments in the flight, and it was said Under-Secretary Dalbo probably would be at the landing field to welcome the aviators, Roger G. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey.

Newspapers today gave their most prominent front page displays to the flight.

DULUTH MAN HELD AS DRIVER OF DEATH CAR

Superior—(AP)—Charged with driving the car which killed Lawrence A. Johnson, Duluth, Albert H. Haak, also of Duluth, is in jail here while Douglas county authorities check his activities of last Thursday night and Friday. Haak is held in default of $2,500 bond, fixed in the manslaughter case. Johnson was killed last Thursday.

Johnson was struck by a car alleged to have been driven by Haak as he stood in the road watching a companion repair a tire. The driver attempted to wrench the license plates from the death machine after the accident and then fled. While authorities were checking ownership of the car, Haak telephoned to police and reported his auto had been stolen.

CEMETERY GROUP TO MEET HERE WEDNESDAY

The second annual meeting of the Association of Wisconsin Cemetery Superintendents and Officials will open at Hotel Northern at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with an address of welcome by Mayor A. C. Rule. J. B. Hayes, Waukesha, will give the president's address, and in the evening W. B. Currie, Milwaukee will read a paper on Lawn Mowings and Maintenance.

Thursday John C. Ryan, superintendent of the city cemetery, Appleton, will read a paper on Evergreen Trees for Cemeteries. Officers will be elected and the 1930 convention city selected. In the afternoon there will be a drive around Appleton, with visits to all cemeteries and a demonstration of equipment at Riverside. About 100 cemetery superintendents and officials are expected to attend.

LOCAL MAN DRIVES CAR INTO CORNFIELD

While returning to Appleton from Fond du Lac about 9 o'clock Monday evening, Weller Wolfe, who resides at the local Y. M. C. A., crashed into a cornfield with his car and drove into a cornfield for a distance of about 50 feet, after being crowded off the road by another car on Highway 41 south of Oshkosh. The driver escaped injury but the front end of the car was slightly damaged by a nearby farmer.

Mrs. Ruby Fries, son Jack, and daughter Audrey, and Mrs. Fieda Shigners spent Tuesday at Hilbert.

GIRL CRIMINALS GO ASTRAY BEFORE THEY ARE NINETEEN

New York—(AP)—If a girl gets safely past the age of 19, the chances are she won't become a criminal, a report made today by Elizabeth R. Butler, social worker, indicated.

After four months study of women inmates of city penal institutions, where she mingled with her subjects and got their stories first hand, Miss Butler forwarded her report to Commissioner of Corrections Richard C. Patterson, Jr.

Nineteen appear to be the dangerous age for women who are apt to get into trouble with the law, according to Miss Butler's report. In the various classes of feminine prisoners she found the percentages of the 19-year-olds to range from 19 to 39 per cent. Most of the others were under 19.

Of all the women offenders she said she found shoplifters most baffling.

NO NEWS FROM ROME-BOUND SHIP

of any ships at sea. The plane carried no radio.

Fancy, who is the navigator on the flight estimated they would complete the 4,200 mile flight from 45 to 48 hours, which would bring them to Rome Wednesday forenoon.

Clear weather prevailed between Old Orchard and the ship lane junction 1,000 miles out, which the aviators hoped to reach via Cape Sable, N. S. From there on it was partly clear, and similar conditions obtained over Spain, Southern France and the Mediterranean.

BOTH VETERAN FLIERS
Both members of the crew are veteran aviators and Yancey is an expert navigator, with a ship master's license, and several years seafaring experience.

Williams is a mechanical engineer and has been associated with aviation since a youth when he and his brother built and flew a plane near their home in Brooklyn. He is 35 years old and married. ## FRENCH KEEP WATCH

Paris—(AP)—French authorities have given instructions at all points along the west coast to keep a sharp lookout today for the airplane Pathfinder, which, manned by Roger G. Williams and Lewis Yancey, left Old Orchard, Me., yesterday, bound for Rome.

The admirals at Cherbourg and Brest were advised to inform shipping of the flight and to report promptly if the plane was seen. Airfields were to have everything in readiness to afford them assistance in their journey over France.

There was the greatest public interest in the flight, the newspapers displaying Old Orchard dispatches prominently with descriptions of the plane, the fliers, and maps of their chosen route.

At the air fields there was a feeling the flight would be successful, the opinion being based largely on the favorable weather reports and careful preparations.

M'GURN CASE AGAIN ORDERED DELAYED

Chicago—(AP)—Jack McGurn wrote another ditto mark under the word "continued" in his diary of court appearances today. Yesterday the state won a postponement of the charges of murder growing from the St. Valentine's day gang massacre, and today the Mann act charges against McGurn and his blonde alibi, Louise Roffe, were continued to July 19 by agreement of government and his counsel. He was accused of transporting the woman from Miami to Chicago.

STREET DEPARTMENT FINISHES ROAD JOB

The street department finished surfacing E. John-st from E. Duane-st to the city limits with tarvis Monday. Approximately 3,240 feet were surfaced. The work was inspected Monday afternoon by Mayor A. C. Rule, Frank Appleton, county highway commissioner, Walter Gmeiner, chairman of the street and bridge committee, Robert Hackworth, street commissioner, and John Tracy, supervisor. The group also inspected grading of N. Walter-ave preparatory to paving. The work is being done by Simpson-Parker Construction company.

Barbers Meet
The Barbers Union held its regular business meeting in the Trades and Labor hall Monday evening, with John Deltgen, president, in charge. About 25 barbers were present.

ROAD PATROLMEN "LAID OFF" IN ECONOMY PROGRAM

Highway Commissioner Attempts to Reduce Shortage in Fund

Beginning this week, Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, is instituting a program of economy in the highway department which calls for "forced" vacations of from four to six weeks for all county highway patrolmen.

The purpose of the layoffs is an effort to overcome some of the deficit of approximately $32,000 faced by the patrol fund this season as a result of overdrafts and the purchase of a $10,000 tractor last spring.

Mr. Appleton said that the patrol fund totaled about $32,000 less this year than last year as a result of bills which were paid this spring. These bills accumulated before he took office. Mr. Appleton said, and their existence was unknown until they were presented. Mr. Appleton said the fund was further reduced as the result of the purchase of a tractor for $10,000 this spring. The money was taken from the patrol fund.

Laying off the patrolmen will not take place at once. In those districts where the roads are in good shape the patrolmen will be laid off until the roads again need attention, when they will be returned to work. In this manner there may be as many as 20 or 30 patrolmen off at one time or there may be as many as that at work at one time.

The highway commissioner does not believe that the discharge of patrolmen now, when the roads are in fairly good shape, will injure the good roads program.

He pointed out that now when the roads are dry they are in good shape and the workmen cannot accomplish much as there is nothing to do. He said it would be more beneficial to lay the patrolmen off at this time and have them continue later in the fall.

While this system of laying off patrolmen will make up only a small part of the shortage, Mr. Appleton believes that each little bit will help.

The plan has been approved by the highway committee.

BRITISH U-BOAT RAMMED AND SUNK

blined exercises off the Irish coast were returning to Portland or Portsmouth. Ocean salvage experts expressed the opinion that if the weather remains fine it should be possible to locate the wreck, but that the great depth at which it is lying would make diving operations very difficult.

There is a possibility that the new Italian diving apparatus, which enables divers to work safely far under the surface and which is being used on an effort to raise the liner Egypt off Finissterre will be utilized in an attempt to save the 4-47.

SMALLEST TYPE
Submarines of the H class are the smallest in the British navy and they are used almost entirely for training purposes. They were built to the design of the American constructor John Holland, the first were built in parts in the United States during the early stages of the war and were assembled at Montreal. They crossed the Atlantic under their own power without escort. The British navy liked them as they were the fastest and most reliable divers in the service.

Later vessels of the H class in which the admiralty introduced many improvements, were built in British dockyards.

The worst post-war British submarine disaster recorded took place in 1925 when the H-1 was sunk off Star point with the loss of 68 lives.

Other disasters included the disappearance of the K-5 in 1921 off the Scilly Isles while at diving practice, with the loss of 67 lives. In 1922 the H-42 was rammed by a destroyer off Europe point, near Gibraltar, and 26 men were killed. In 1924 the L-24 was sunk during maneuvers off Portland and 43 were killed.

PREVIOUS DISASTERS
New York—(AP)—Submarine disasters have taken a heavy toll of life in the navies of the world. Some of the major accidents to undersea craft follow:

March 24, 1915—United States submarine H-4 sunk in Honolulu bay. Loss of life.

March 23, 1922—British submarine sunk by another British sub off Gibraltar, death toll 23.

Aug. 21, 1923—Japanese submarine founded beside a dock at Kobe, Japan. Eighty-five dead.

Jan. 10, 1924—British submarine L-24 sunk by British battleship off Portland, England. Death toll 43.

March 19, 1924—Japanese submarine sunk by Japanese battleship off Sasebo, Japan. Forty-nine dead.

Sept. 25, 1925—United States submarine S-51 sunk off Block Island, R. I. by steamer City of Rome. Thirty-three dead.

Dec. 17—United States submarine S-4, sunk off Provincetown, Mass. by coast guard cutter Paulding. Forty dead.

Aug. 6, 1928—Italian submarine F-14 sunk in Adriatic sea in collision with destroyer. Thirty-one dead.

PROHIBITION KILLINGS
Inexcusable use of firearms in the enforcement of prohibition has again occurred, this time in Oklahoma, where two farmers, James Harris and Oscar Lowry of Tecumseh, were shot and killed. Four men composed the killing squad. They are being held without bail charged with murder. The dry raiders claim they had information that the victims were operating a still but they appear to have had no search warrants and they did not find a still. Whether the men were operating a still is of no material consequence. Even if they were they were committing no offense punishable by death and no officer had a right to kill them if they tried to escape or resist arrest with anything less than an attempt to kill the officers. It is said that one of the men slain reached for a shotgun thinking the raiders were robbers, a circumstance he may have had a right to assume in the absence of a search warrant. It is said the other started to run and was shot down in his tracks.
Never in the history of the country up to the time of the adoption of the eighteenth amendment were the laws of the country enforced at the point of the shotgun or rifle except under martial law and in the pursuit of murderers and desperadoes. While violations of the prohibition law have been made a felony by congress, the offense is not of a character that justifies the killing of suspected violators or even of known violators. Furthermore, the disposition of the federal government to defend slayers employed to enforce prohibition has operated to encourage reckless use of firearms and manslaughter. It is certain that this state of affairs cannot go on indefinitely without terminating in social disorders.
Statements are made by wet extremists that the killings are officially inspired at Washington, but we cannot bring ourselves to believe that this is the case. Rather we are inclined to think powers conferred on subordinates are too broad and too susceptible of hasty and ill-considered action. There is not a sufficient sense of personal responsibility by the dry raiders. Coupled with this are the flagrant abuses and corruption that have saturated enforcement at all times and in all localities. Politics has given these positions, from executives down to field men, to incompetent, untrustworthy and often vicious and dishonest men. It is only natural that in such an atmosphere there should grow up recklessness, tyranny and malice.
The picture is painted by the wets of a government dominated by religious and moral fanatics and driven by them into fifteenth century inquisitorial excesses. We think the picture is grossly exaggerated. Thousands of churches have kept out of the controversy altogether, and the clergy as a rule has less influence in government than any other individuals. We think it is nearer the truth to assume that the excesses of enforcement are not so much fanaticism as they are the product of venal and vicious politics permeating a vast administrative system under incompetent heads, the unreliable structure being directed out of Washington by politicians who take little or no account of what is being done throughout the country, in the knowledge that the whole scheme is fraudulent and farcical. The president, deceived by uninformed or designing advisors, is left in the false impression that the best is being done that can be done.
We do not believe President Hoover will permit these killings to go on much longer. He has already taken measures to stop them. These may, and seemingly have up to this time, been only partially effective. Undoubtedly more stringent restrictions will follow. We believe President Hoover realizes that continuance of past prohibition practices is not only undesirable socially and politically, but is fundamentally wrong. Given time we think he will completely reorganize the prohibition department and purge it of its excesses and follies. Anything approaching a sane and satisfactory solution of the enforcement problem is possible only on this basis. It is not so much a question of fanaticism behind prohibition enforcement as of rotten and uncontrolled politics that saturates it.

KOHLER OUSTER MOVE
The much advertised ouster proceedings against Gov. Kohler have finally been instituted. It has taken the little aggregation of men behind this move eight months to finally make up their minds to take their "case" into court. There is just one explanation of this attack upon Mr. Kohler, which we have repeatedly pointed out, and that is politics. No sensible citizen of Wisconsin, regardless of his party affiliation, believes for a minute that Gov. Kohler bought his way into office, or that he knowingly or wittingly violated the corrupt practices act. He conducted one of the cleanest campaigns ever fought out in Wisconsin, and he won by his personality and a program which appealed to common sense and popular favor.
We cannot credit the men who have instituted the ouster proceedings with high or sincere motives. No one could who understands the way the political game is played in general, and in this state in particular. Their only purpose is to "get" Gov. Kohler, and put him out of the way to make room for their henchmen and spoilsmen. Gov. Kohler is probably of more real and potential value to Wisconsin than any governor it has had since LaFollette. Being new in public life he has not condescended to stoop to practices which politicians commonly engage in, and we trust he will not do so in order to maintain himself in office.
It would be a silly and harmful interpretation of the corrupt practices act to hold that the petty expense of entertaining guests from time to time and the use of the Kohler company band to receive them had to be included in one's reportable campaign expenditures. If we have come to that we are straining at gnats and swallowing camels. Gov. Kohler reported the money he spent out of his own funds. The amount spent by the state organization formed to cooperate with him and the Republican party, together with funds raised in counties and local communities, is perfectly legitimate unless used to corrupt the electorate or to otherwise contaminate the election.
The Democrats brought a huge fund into Wisconsin in the last campaign and nothing was said about it. The Progressives spend all the money they can get their hands on, use the officeholders of their state organization to keep themselves in power, import coadjutors from the outside and in a hundred ways do the precise things they complain of about Gov. Kohler. They never conducted a campaign that was a whit different in principle than what they charge against him.
All the pretension of high principle, morality and concern for the sanctity of elections is pure make-believe and has for its object selfish aggrandizement of power, as anyone with the most superficial knowledge of politics knows. People of Wisconsin are fortunate to have Walter J. Kohler for their governor. We haven't the slightest idea that one thing will be brought out in the hearing of this case that will compromise his personal integrity, honor or honesty.

WARNING TO OIL MEN
Mark L. Requa, retired oil operator, warns his fellow oil men that they had better be good, and go in for a program of conservation and thrift, because the government will step in and regulate their industry if they don't refrain from over-development.
The more important oil men themselves are trying to work out a system of eliminating over-production, by control of drilling. It is competitive drilling, with every owner and operator striving to get his oil out of the ground first, that has dumped so much petroleum on the market, lowered prices, encouraged wasteful production and endangered the supply in the ground. The government is cooperating with the oil men to correct those abuses. It is better, of course, if the regulation can be voluntary.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—On the tenth floor of an office building at one of New York's busiest corners a shabby young man sat the other noon and nervously waited a battered hat.
He was in the reception room of Dr. H. M. Warren, who had on his desk a note from a neurological clinic. The young man, the letter said, was contemplating suicide. And so the clinic had sent him to Dr. Warren, president of the National Save-a-Life league.
More than a thousand cases of mental distress that have almost reached the self-destruction stage thus are sent to the tired founder of the anti-suicide organization each year. Some are sent by physicians, others by clergymen, teachers or friends.
By personal interviews or by mail Dr. Warren hears of their troubles and responds with the counsel of hope.
"Wait another day," he advises "Sleep on it." It is, he said effective treatment.
CALLED TO SERVICE
More than 20 years ago Dr. Warren was a Baptist minister, pastor of a New York church. Often his spiritual duties took him to the city's hotels to talk with despondent strangers who in their loneliness were in want of advice.
One day such a stranger, at loose ends, telephoned frantically to one clergyman who was out, to another who was "too busy," to a third who refused to visit him. Then he leaped from his window.
That determined Dr. Warren to give up his pastorate and devote time and income, which independent of his salary, to the saving of lives. He felt that he "was raised by God to do this work."
For Dr. Warren believes in a God whom man meets in the hereafter, and a Satan. Both, he thinks, influence lives, one offering hope and fulfillment, the other despair and "the lie of futility."
To Dr. Warren suicide is self-murder, as much a crime as the taking of another's life. It is hurling oneself unbidden and unprepared before the Judgment Bar of an offended God, where on one can escape personal responsibility for the deeds done in the body, and where possibly you may begin life there as a stranger.
Through the league, therefore, he offers what preventive seems to be needed, free medical treatment, free legal aid, or temporal help (i. e. money), and spiritual assistance. He himself always prays with those who come to him personally.
"It has," he said, "a magical psychological effect."
DIVERSIONS
The young man who was waiting to see Dr. Warren was sent to the league's "salvatorium" at Hastings-on-Hudson. A hundred former service men, wrecks of the war, have been treated there to rest and recreation.
Dr. Warren himself carries heavily the duties of his office. The loose frame of this grey, mild-mannered man seems fatigued by the cares he takes from others in exchange for restored hope.
He finds some relaxation in the study of astronomy; music of his own playing on organ or piano; motoring, for which he has two cars, and an active social life. But even with these diversions, it was necessary for him to pass last winter in the south, to fit himself for another year of life-saving.

BRADDOCK'S DEFEAT
One hundred and seventy-four years ago today, on July 9, 1775, General Edward Braddock was mortally wounded and his British regulars routed in a battle near Fort Duquesne in the French and Indian war.
England sent Braddock to Virginia to lead an army of British troops against the French who were claiming the Ohio valley. Accompanied by Colonel Washington, who was later to lead the continental army, Braddock advanced from Fort Cumberland and began to climb the rough ridges of the Alleghenies planning to attack Fort Duquesne.
Three hundred ax-men cleared the way. Behind them came the British regulars, a glittering army of scarlet and steel. Braddock despised the backwoods method of fighting and disregarded Washington's warning of possible ambush.
Suddenly the English advance was greeted with a terrific war whoop and was fired upon from both sides by an unseen foe, while the French attacked in front.
Braddock fell, mortally wounded, and the British regulars were cut to pieces. The Virginians, with Washington at their head, saved half the British army of 1,200 men.

Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

EXAMINATION TIME AGAIN
A year or more has elapsed since we conducted the last health questionnaire. It was good fun for first passengers as well as the conductor of the column, but so many excursionists took advantage of the game that I got mad and cancelled further engagements. You know how it is—haven't you ever stopped the paper or felt like it? What irritated me was the calm way these half fare excursionists ordered that the answers be sent to them. That wasn't the purpose of the questionnaire at all. It was intended as a means for readers to show whether they're learning the little lessons in right living that we teach here.
Well, I'm not a vindictive person; I get all hot up in a surprising short time, and say or do something atrocious perhaps; but in a few minutes it is all over with and I'm sorry and ashamed of my conduct.
It is examination time again. I suppose we must hold an examination to determine what progress, if any, readers have made in the study of hygiene in the past year. This is all just for fun, you understand. I am again examinations, as a general rule. I think school examinations and college examinations as they are usually conducted are a poor sort of diversion, a diversion of attention from the incompetent teaching and the neglect of study in the institution where the demonstration on this ground where a mid term or final test is the only check the educational authorities have of the candidate's class work. Where this examination business attains the height of absurdity is in the elementary and high schools; there, often enough, a pupil whose class work has been excellent through the term flunks the examination, unless some teacher with a bit of common sense "fixes" it; on the other hand many a pupil who has unmistakably shown his unfitness in the term is lucky enough to "pass" the examination with high standing. It is a strange thing that teachers or educators generally sanction the examination absurdity or at any rate they seldom make audible protests against the wastefulness and injustice of this archaic custom.
Just for fun, then, here are the questions for the fifth health questionnaire. Send in your answers according to the numbers. Inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address and you will receive the corrected answers by mail. The correct answers have been given in this column in the course of the last few weeks:
1. What is the function of the appendix?
2. What is likely to happen if a confirmed pill taker is unable to get his regular supply?
3. What's liver good for?
4. How may one be sure of getting enough lime (calcium)?
5. Is it dangerous to go out in the cold immediately after a hot bath? Give reason for your answer.
6. What effect has treatment with an infra-red lamp?
7. Is bumion a growth or deformity?
8. How may a person get tularemia?
9. Should babies eat bananas? Explain your answer.
10. What is cri and how is it usually contracted?
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Spread of Infantile Paralysis
Please answer in your column whether infantile paralysis is contagious or not. Should such cases be quarantined, and if so, for how long? Mrs. A. L. L.
Answer—As the mode of transmission is not definitely known there is no effective means of prevention. As a rule the patient is isolated as completely as possible for the first three weeks of illness. After that, it seems, there is a reason to believe that visitors or attendants may act as carriers of the infection, and hence actual quarantine is necessary. It has been proved that the virus is given off from the mucous membrane of nose and throat. Therefore the nose and throat discharges require the same care as in a case of scarlet fever or diphtheria.
Raisins for Children
My daughter, aged 2 1/2 years, is very fond of raisins. I have a vague recollection that I have read that raisins give children worms. Is this true? (Mrs. A. S.)
Answer—I advise you to give the child raisins, best along with other foods, such as rice pudding.
Legs Look Funny
I am nicely built with the exception of my legs. They are too thin for my 64 inches. Would cocoa butter or a tissue builder... I love to swim but I am ashamed to go... when I stand straight a big circle of daylight shows thru my knees... (P. T.)
Answer—Probably you require only a few pounds of added flesh. Better do all the swimming you can, for that is the best of all good tissue builders. Of course nothing you can apply, wear or rub in will change matters. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for gaining weight.
Why the Alias?
Can you tell me whether the specialists in ———— institute are registered? I am thinking of going there for a circumcision. (M. A.)
Answer—They may be registered, yet thoroughly disreputable. I advise you to entrust the little operation only to a reputable doctor, who practices under his own name.

A New York ice man has just completed a journey around the world in 34 days 3 hours and 55 minutes. We're glad somebody met the popular demand that this thing be done.
It was perfectly all right for Bishop Cannon, the dry crusader, to play the stock market — if he desired to. Not all of us can do what we want to do, however.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD
BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—All Hollywood's "mammy songs" are not sung on the screen; there are many real life mother-son stories rivaling those embalmed in tearful celluloid.
Here is Harry Green, for instance. Harry, noted comedian of the stage, is in Hollywood for a while in tights. His mother is with him always, and because of that, is soon to make her debut as an actress.
It was Harry's mother, now well on in years, who was responsible for his choice of the stage as a career in the first place, back in New York. Harry was studying law at New York university, but he had a decided yen for the footlights.
Then his mother became ill. Harry learned something he had not dreamed before, that old mother of his was doing without a lot of things in order to keep him in school. One thing she did without was sufficient food. So Harry went on the stage, a vaudeville comedian in the afternoons and nights, a law student mornings.
MAMA ACTS, TOO
After graduating Green practiced law without success for a time, then returned to the stage. Did he succeed? Well, he even owns his own theater in London now.
Here in Hollywood, where all famous actors seem to land nowadays, his mother, without screen or stage experience, decided she would break into movies too. She got extra work at $10 a day at "Why Bring That Up?"
"I tried to offer her $15 a day to stay out of it," says Harry, "because it was so tiring, then I raised the ante to $50, but she wouldn't hear of it. Now she's got a part with me in 'Kibitzer,' and if mama steals the show what can I do?"
And while her part consists of only one line, there isn't a prouder actress in Hollywood than Harry Green's mama.
HORSE TALE
Hobart Bosworth, grand old film veteran, has a horse, a beautiful white Arabian named Cameo. Cameo has but one master, and to Bosworth there is but one horse. Bosworth is riding Cameo down a bridle path the other day and met John Barrymore. "Egad!" quoth Bosworth in effect. "I would as soon be ridden as have anyone else ride Cameo!"
But John rides Cameo in his new picture. Therein is a tribute either to friendship or to the glib persuasiveness of the Barrymore tongue.
Bosworth, by the way, recalls his first meeting with Barrymore, in Philadelphia quite a few years ago. He saw John, a mere infant, with Lionel and Ethel, also tots—and John, he says, reminded him of that "introduction" when they met again after the lapse of years!

2 VACANCIES UNFILLED ON FARM BOARD

Minnesota Man Represents Dairy Industry—Meeting
Set for Monday

Washington—(AP)—Only two vacancies remained today in the membership of the Federal Farm board, and President Hoover expects to have these filled in time for the appointees to attend the first meeting Monday.

At least one of these vacancies is to be filled with a man experienced in the production and marketing of wheat, which is likely to be the first commodity which the board will attempt to stabilize.

The other vacancy may also go to a representative of this grand division of agriculture, but the president has experienced considerable difficulty in making a selection in that field and is known to have desired, in the beginning at any rate, to have a banker on the board. If, as has been suggested, he has abandoned the idea of including a financier in the membership, it is regarded as most likely that he will attempt to give, either wheat or cotton a second spokesman.

OTHER MEMBERS
The appointive membership was brought up to six with the acceptance of the place as representative of the dairy industry by William F. Schilling of Northfield, Minn., president of the Twin City Milk Producers association. W. S. Moscrip, secretary-treasurer of that organization, was offered the appointment but declined.

General business is represented in the membership by Alexander H. Legge, president of the International Harvester company, who will be chairman. The vice chairman will be the spokesman for tobacco, James Stone of Lexington, Ky. The present representative of cotton is Carl Williams of Oklahoma City, while livestock will have a choice through C. Denman of Farmington, Mo., and fruit through C. C. Teague of Los Angeles. Secretary Hyde is an ex-officio member as a sort of spokesman for agriculture in general.

1,000 PEOPLE VISIT RABBIT RANCH SUNDAY

About 1,000 people visited the Delrei Rabbit ranch on Highway 47, about two and one half miles from Appleton, at an "open-house" Sunday. More than 10 breeds of rabbits were displayed by the owners of the Delrei ranch and associated breeders from this vicinity. The exhibition was conducted as an educational venture. Dr. P. J. Ryan, a widely known rabbit authority, gave a short address in which he outlined the rabbit breeding industry and the prospective developments which are in store for it. Chris Delrei, Appleton, is the manager of the Delrei ranch.

HIGHWAY COMMITTEE SEEKS BRIDGE BIDS

Sealed proposals will be received by the county highway committee up to 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, July 16, at the office at the courthouse, for a new bridge to be constructed across the Embarras river in the town of Maple Creek. The Spurr bridge, which had been in use at this point, was damaged by flood waters this spring. The bridge has a waterway of 114 feet in length and two abutments, 18 feet high. Bids must be accompanied by plans and specifications and a certified check of $100. Contractors must furnish all labor, material, cement, sand, gravel and stone.

KOHLER IS SILENT AS HE RECEIVES OUSTER PAPERS

formal statement, calling attention to the fact that he had asked strengthening of the corrupt practices act in his message to the 1929 legislature.

He said people of the state know my record is clear and I do not intend to allow this latest move on my political opponents to interfere with the official business of the state.

Any further comment, the governor said, would come from his legal counsel at Madison.

In his message to the legislature, the governor said:

"I recommend that the legislature appoint a joint committee to investigate the methods and practices of the primary, general and special election campaigns, including and subsequent to the year 1924 for the purpose of discovering abuses and drafting legislation to prevent their recurrence."

The legislature has passed the Fellenz bill authorizing the investigation and appropriating $10,000 for expenses and the bill was signed by the governor. The committee has not yet been organized.

The statement of the executive and his optimistic attitude in receiving the complaint indicated his belief that he will not be removed from office.

His statement calls attention to the fact that he is replacing the fixture in the bathrooms of the executive mansion at his own expense, a clear indication, it would seem, that the governor means to make that Madison house his home for at least the remaining year and a half of his term.

The proceedings are brought by Harold M. Wilkie, Madison, and Walter D. Corrigan, Milwaukee, who were appointed special counsel for that purpose Jan. 25 by John W. Reynolds, attorney general. Reynolds made the appointments on petition of four prominent Progressives, who charge Kohler with having spent more than $100,000 to obtain the Republican nomination and election.

The four petitioners, who are joint plaintiffs with the state in the proceedings, are: Philip F. LaFollette, brother of Sen. Robert M. LaFollette; William T. Evis, editor of the Madison Capital Times; Alvin C. Reis, Progressive floor leader of the assembly, and State Senator Glenn D. Roberts, Madison.

An answer or demurrer must be made by Kohler's attorneys within 10 days. It is generally assumed they will demurr to the complaint, in which event the circuit court will sustain or overrule the demurrer. It is also generally assumed that which every way the lower court rules, an immediate appeal will be taken to the state supreme court for that body to pass on the case.

MAY ASK VENUE CHANGE

Should the governor's attorneys desire a change of venue to the Sheboygan-co. circuit court, which is Kohler's home community, they must make such a request within three days.

The complaints pray that the court find Governor Kohler violated the corrupt practices act, and "enter judgment declaring void the election of said Walter J. Kohler to the office of governor of the state of Wisconsin, and ousting and excluding him from said office, and declaring said office vacant."

A limit of $4,000 is allowed under the corrupt practices act for the campaign expenses of a gubernatorial candidate. When Mr. Reynolds appointed special counsel to bring the action, he expressed conviction that Kohler had spent a sum "greatly in excess of $4,000, and" that he believed a civil suit against the governor could be successfully maintained.

The complaint charges Governor Kohler utilized the services of his manufacturing company, the Kohler Co., Kohler, Wis., in his campaign, using employees of the company for political purposes while they were receiving wages from the Kohler concern. This, the complaint said, was not only a violation of the corrupt practices act, but was also a violation of the statute which prohibits a corporation under penalty from contributing money, property or the services of its officers or employees to promote the candidacy of any person.

Not only did employees of the Kohler company distribute political advertisements, the complaint says, but the Kohler band, composed of Kohler company employees, accompanied Governor Kohler on his campaign trips over the state.

OTHER CHARGES

The complaint also charges the law was violated by Kohler when he delegated to a personal campaign committee, composed of George L. Guley, R. O. Wiperman and W. P. Kinsella, the conduct of his campaign, they not constituting a party committee. This committee, according to the complaint, was authorized by Kohler to raise and expend more than $50,000 to secure his nomination.

Walter J. Kohler knew that said persons were expending sums aggregating more than $50,000 in his behalf," the complaint alleges. "Petitioners are informed and believe the acts of said committee were under the personal direction of said Walter J. Kohler. If such acts were not under his personal direction, then, by failing to keep said acts under his personal direction, he violated the statutes."

The complaint charges Kohler violated the law by not including in his filed statement of expenses the money spent for entertainment of large numbers of voters invited to his home in Sheboygan county disbursements for the Kohler band and other Kohler company employees who aided in the campaign; contributions from the Kohler company; contributions in the form of loans from individuals amounting to more than $30,000 and similar items.

It is also charged Kohler contributed $500 to the "so-called Sheboygan-co. Republican committee, which was not the party committee, and not the personal campaign committee of the candidate."

Thousands of persons were entertained at Kohler, Wis., by meals, cigars, refreshments, and other things of value during the campaign, and a statement of that expense made to the secretary of state, it is alleged.

STARS OF STAGE ARE MARRIED AT WEEKEND PARTY

New Milford, Conn.—(P)—Friends learned today of the sudden marriage of Mary Ellis and Basil Sydney, stars in "Meet the Prince."

The couple decided to be married while guests at a weekend house party at the summer home of Richard Boleslavsky, director of the American Laboratory theatre of New York.

After the ceremony, which was performed Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney were given an impromptu wedding party, then left for New York.

Among those at the wedding were Miss Ellis' sister, former wife of Horace Liveright, publisher; H. Cooper Smith, and his wife Alice Belmont, New York actors, and Marie Ospenska, Russian actress.

Miss Ellis had been married twice before and Mr. Sydney once. His first wife was Doris Keane, the actress, with whom he starred in several plays, particularly "Romance" and "The Czarina." They were married in 1919 and divorced in 1925.

Miss Ellis was married in 1920 to Lieut. Louis G. Bernheimer, a World war aviator, from whom she was divorced three years later. That same year she married Edwin H. Knopf, a brother of Alfred A. Knopf, the publisher. They were divorced in 1925.

Since 1925 Miss Ellis and Mr. Sydney have appeared in the same productions and always as lovers. Miss Ellis, who was educated from early childhood for an operatic career and at one time was a member of the Metropolitan Opera company, switched to the spoken drama on suffering a strained voice while singing the title role in "Rose Marie" in which she scored a great success.

She was equally a success in the spoken drama and with Mr. Sydney appeared in "Twelve Thousand," "The Taming of the Shrew," "The Crown Prince," "Meet Prince," and "Becky Sharp."

Mr. Sydney is an Englishman and made his first appearance in this country in 1914. He was one of the first to play Shakespeare in modern dress.

THE Saint Sinner. By Anne Austin. 612 1/2 N. W. 2nd St. Appleton, Wis.

No. 1015 Viaduct Lane was an even meaner house than Colin Grant had led Crystal to expect. A grey, weather-beaten huddle of five rooms, it crouched at the end of the railroad viaduct, just where the trains snorted up the buttressed incline, to leave the state highway clear for its endless procession of cars and trucks. And every time a train passed the little house shivered and shook, so that it was a wonder it did not fall completely to pieces.

Crystal and Tony passed through a cinder-packed scrap of front yard, onto the sagging front porch. A big mongrel dog snarled at them, but was too lazy or too old to rise. What a place for Colin Grant to choose to live in, Crystal thought, something like anger mingling with pity for him and those who had to live there.

"Come in!" a shrill old voice called in answer to Crystal's timid knock. She suddenly felt woefully incapable of dealing with the tragedy which had added to the dinginess of 1015 Viaduct Lane.

Crystal had described old Mrs. Barrett well, when he had said: "She's half-blind and has dropsy, and is pretty hard up." For it was a mountainous, sick old woman with dim eyes who peered at her unexpected callers. She sat before a grimy window which commanded a view of the trains and the motors, in a room that was close and bare and undid.

A lean grey cat lay coiled in the pan of ashes before the pot-bellied coal heater, glowing dully with the fire which tried unsuccessfully to banish the bitter cold.

Crystal's voice trembled as she stated her errand: "My friend, Colin Grant, has sent us to call on your granddaughter, Callie. He told us she was sick and needed cheering up."

"Heh, heh!" the old lady cackled, nodding her three chins with obscene mirth. "Reckon it'll take some time afore a couple of gals to cheer Callie up. Now, if one of ye wore pants, and had a marriage license in your pocket—"

Crystal stole a quick, frightened glance at Tony. She wished now she had prepared her for the ugly business at hand. Mrs. Barrett's head perking high as it always did in crises. The blue-diamond eyes started with horror at the old woman, shaking and nodding in her rocking chair. Then her head turned slowly to stare at Crystal. Crystal nodded, and then Tony knew all that she could have told her.

"May we see Callie, Mrs. Barrett?" It was Tony who spoke, and now there was pity instead of horror in the blue eyes.

"Reckon ye can, if ye've got the strength to shove open that there door," Mrs. Barrett pointed a puffed, brown old finger. "Reckon she's asleep, she's asleep, though, or she'd a-been out here sick-in' the dogs on ye. We don't want no high-and-mighty sassiest gals nosin' around in our affairs. We ain't on charity yet, though the Lord knows what we'll come to. Go along in. Reckon she won't do wuss'n order ye out."

Tony led the way, opening the door softly, closing it very gently behind herself and Crystal. On a scarred white-painted iron bed, in a welter of patchwork quilts, lay a girl asleep, her breath coming stertorously through her slightly opened mouth.

NEXT: A terrible meeting, and a confession.

WOMAN CAMPS ON DISPUTED GROUND IN COURT BATTLE

Washington —(P)— Dr. Anne Bartsch Dunne of Washington, who owns a corner piece of property valued at $100,000 in silver springs, just across the District of Columbia line in Maryland, is living on it with a woman companion in a small pyramid tent.

She and her friend pitched their tent on the property themselves after Dr. Dunne's lawyer reminded her that "possession is nine points of the law." She wanted those nine points in her favor in an ouster suit she has brought against the Maryland garage of Silver Springs, to prevent it from continuing work on a filling station begun on the property under a lease to certain provisions of which it later objected.

The tent stands in the muddy excavation, and at least one of the women is in it at all times despite its exposure to the relentless beat of the Sun's rays by day and the invasion of insects at night.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE rocket stick kept falling fast and clowny cried. "Oh, we can't last if we keep dropping down like this. 'Twill take our breath away. I wish we'd never shot up high to play around the clouded sky. I know of lots of other spots where I'd much rather play."

The other Tynmites didn't speak, but they all heard somebody squeak. "Don't give up yet, but be real brave and hang on to that stick. We'll try for all that we are worth to stop your crashing down to earth. You're traveling so very fast we'll have to act real quick."

Of course the Tynmites knew it was a Sky Tot crying out, because there was nobody else nearby. This gave them all much hope. Said Scouty, "Keep your nerve up now, and we may all be saved somehow. Perhaps the Sky Tots plan to throw us out a coil of rope."

"Ha, ha," laughed Copy. "That sounds dumb. Why, even if the rope did come it wouldn't mean a thing to us. 'Twould only fall down too. I think we'd better hope and pray that we land on a load of hay. At least it would be soft and I am sure 'twould nicely do."

Just then the rocket stick cracked loud and rather frightened all the crowd. They all let go and then the stick sailed quickly out of sight. This left the Tynmites in the air, still falling toward they knew not where. A Sky Tot then flew up and said, "Things soon will be all right."

At just that moment they all stopped, and into something soft they flopped. "Where are we?" shouted Copy. "In a cloud," a Sky Tot cried. "We Sky Tots pushed this cloud around to save you falling to the ground. And now that you are in it we will give you all a ride."

(The Tynmites have a sky ride in the next story.)

CITY PLAYGROUND NEEDS BACKING OF COUNCIL, BELIEVE

Matter Will Be Referred to Aldermen and Board of Education

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—The consensus of Rotarians on Monday was that a public playground should be maintained by the city council and the board of education. Led by the Rev. F. S. Dayton, the discussion brought out the belief that even were money to be raised by the various organizations for playground work and the maintenance of an instructor, the work would not have the impact and the stability which would come to it through the direction of the school and council.

A number of the men recalled the times in the past when this city has raised money for similar projects only to have the effort fall flat because of lack of interest or of proper guidance, and with these experiences in mind they believed that interest would be more unified if given long enough, thus building on a more solid foundation.

The playground, it was repeatedly pointed out, is much needed. Other club members thought that a permanent scout camp might be worked out, with the athletic coach of the high school, or some other suitable person, hired for other work. Rotarians will consult with the council and the school board at early meetings. Lions were to take up the matter Tuesday, while meetings of other organizations were to go into the matter at an early date.

FREAK LIGHTNING BOLT HITS THREE PLACES AT ONCE

Weyauwega—It is said lightning never strikes more than once in the same place, because when it strikes once the place isn't there anymore.

That may be true enough, but here's a story about a bolt that struck three places at one time and caused considerable damage to two places of business and one residence at Weyauwega about 5 o'clock Monday evening, during the severe electrical storm.

The freak bolt struck in three branches it was reported. It struck the People's Bakery causing the insulation on electrical wires to start fire, and also the Zuehlke Barber shop a few doors away. The fire department was called to extinguish blazes started at both places.

The third branch of the bolt struck the chimney of the Mose Cohen residence about a half block away and demolished it. Spectators say that the three buildings were struck simultaneously.

Of Interest To Farmers

POINTERS FOR THE EFFICIENT FARMER

(By U. S. Department of Agriculture)
Feeder pigs have been in increasing demand during the last few years, chiefly from farmers in the corn belt and from men who devote their time to the business of fattening pigs. Other demands come from garbage-feeding and serum plants near large cities. Feeder pigs generally weigh from 75 to 100 pounds, sometimes up to 120 pounds.

There now are on the market small, compact sets for testing soil acidity. These are easily handled and a farmer can test the fields himself. Many farms contain a variety of soils, and sometimes only part of a field will be acid. It is well to make a number of soil-acidity tests in different parts of a field to avoid unnecessary applications of lime.

To determine fairly accurately the number of tons of hay in a stack, multiply the "over," or the distance from the ground on one side over the top, to the ground on the other, by the width at the ground, then by the length, and then by 0.37. Generally 512 cubic feet of hay weighs one ton.

A sucking colt that is being broken soon will become accustomed to the conditions and noises associated with work if he is tied to his mother's trace when she is worked. The tie can be made at the union of the back band and the trace and should be short enough to prevent the colt from getting in front of the team. This practice should be continued at short intervals and only until the colt is broken to lead.

Garbage fed to hogs is better given raw than cooked. Hogs show considerable discrimination in choosing parts of garbage that are valuable as feed, and if it is fed cooked they have no choice other than to eat the whole mass. Portions of garbage such as citrus fruit rinds or coffee grounds are valueless as hog feed.

Success in making good silage depends upon cutting the crop at the right stage, fine cutting, thorough exclusion of air and plenty of moisture in the cut material.

The leaves of an alfalfa plant contain about two-thirds of the feeding value of the plant, and alfalfa hay should be put in the stack or mow with as many leaves as possible. The hay should be handled as little as possible after it begins to dry and should be raked before it becomes brittle.

Honey should be thoroughly ripened in the hive before it is extracted; otherwise it is likely to cappen and the honey weighs 12 pounds to the gallon, its maturity may be taken for granted.

Due to the extreme weakness of my kidneys I was forced to arise several times each night."

SOUTH AMERICA IS FACED BY JAM IN RADIO CHANNELS

Needs an Immediate Re-allocation of Facilities Expert Believes

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington—South America is threatened with the same disrupting jam in broadcasting that befell the United States and only by an immediate "re-allocation" of facilities can it save off radio chaos.

This is the opinion of O. H. Caldwell, former federal radio commissioner, who took the leading part in the nationwide re-allocation of broadcasting effected within the United States last November. That a general improvement has resulted from this step no longer is questioned, even by the most ardent opponents of exclusive channels and high power, which the realignment brought into being.

In an article in a radio and electrical journal reaching the latin-American countries, the former radio commissioner diagnoses the radio jam of South America and prescribes the cure. He advises that a realignment be made before the situation becomes intolerable, and then he recommended super power for broadcasting stations to overcome the tropical static and to reach rural listeners. His cure is the same that he prescribed in this country.

AIR CLUTTERED
Reports from South America importers of United States radio sets, said Mr. Caldwell, indicate that during the present southern winter, covering the months June, July and August, the wave lengths there already are becoming cluttered up with heterodynes. The individual governments are issuing broadcasting licenses to their own stations, but no international authority has yet been set up to coordinate these assignments throughout the continent.

Advocating reallocations similar to those recently carried out on the continents of both Europe, in April of this year and North America, of last November, Mr. Caldwell said in these cases efforts at a comprehensive radio engineering plan were not made until after an intolerable situation had already grown up, with the rapid development of radio inside the boundaries of each nation or section.

NO REGARD
"That is," he said, "stations have been licensed and allowed to go on the air without regard to the resulting international interference, which might have been foreseen under a continent-wide engineering scheme of supervision. These continental where radio development has not yet reached the brim of continental capacity, due to their geographic magnitude—that is, where the wave lengths are not yet full have a great advantage in this respect."

In such quarters of the earth, a systematic scientific plan can be scheduled in advance and future broadcast-station construction shaped so as to bring to all the people of each continent the maximum of radio service and to each home, however humble or remote, a fair choice of clear, unspoiled radio programs.

In tropical countries, continued the erstwhile commissioner, power is of the utmost importance in overcoming static, the bane of radio in all regions around the equator.

HIGH POWER
"It is power, high power broadcasting, that can make radio reach the ranches and farms," said he. "Putting power behind the programs in the United States has enabled rural listeners thus to hear great speakers, great musicians and great events of the day, with all the crispness and clarity with which they can be heard in the city, a hundred miles away. And so today, the names of KDKA, WJZ, WGY, WLS, WGN and WLV are household words in farm homes everywhere. On them, and on stations like them, millions of farm homes have learned to depend for news, markets, education and entertainment."

"Power and power only can drive strong sharp signals through the racket and roar of summer or tropic interference. Power and more power is the answer to the rancher's and farmer's plea for better radio service. Power will bring in market

SURVEY SHOWS MANY PUPILS PARTLY DEAF

Audiometer Used to Test 40 Children at Once in Nationwide Study

Atlanta—(AP)—Three million school children of the United States are partly deaf, the National Education association was informed today.

The figures were presented to the department of lip reading by Knibloe F. Royce, of the research products department of the Graybar Electric company. He told what the audiometer has revealed about children's hearing.

This instrument tests 40 children at one time. Each child has a pair of ear phones and checks on a chart what he hears coming from the audiometer. To the child it is a sort of game.

"The audiometer," said Mr. Royce, "now is in use by about 100 school systems in this country. Careful studies already have shown that there are from 40 to 50 partly deaf children per 1,000 pupils in the average school, and that these children repeat grades about three and one half times more frequently than do children with normal hearing."

"This means an average annual expense to the community of about $1,000 per 1,000 pupils for unnecessary education.

Madison—(AP)—In order to stop the useless destruction of fish by impounded reservoirs, the Wisconsin Northern States power company has promised the conservation commission to construct fishways wherever necessary to allow the passage of fish over the dams.

The conservation body was represented at the hearing by William Mautho, chairman; E. M. Daulton, commissioner; Matt Patterson, acting director; and H. O. Webster, superintendent of fisheries.

STATE BANK COMMISSIONER APPROVES SMALL LOAN SERVICE

HIS OFFICIAL REPORT IS AN OPEN BOOK!

To the Honorable Members of the State Senate: February 8, 1929

Pursuant to Resolution No. 9 S, relating to the operation of the Uniform Small Loan Act, I have the honor to report:

There were at the close of December 31, 1928, forty-seven offices in operation.

From the certified reports as at the close of business on December 31st, 1928, made to me, the amount of capital and surplus invested in loans to citizens of Wisconsin amounts to $5,548,314.07.

The total loans at the close of December 31, 1928, to residents of Wisconsin, amounted to $4,169,981.87.

The number of borrowers of these loans were 34,130 which makes an average of 726 borrowers per office, and the average loan to each borrower is $122.18.

The gross interest received during their operation in 1928 amounted to $866,580.22.

Their gross expenditures for all purposes amounted to $575,805.14 leaving a net income of $290,775.08, or approximately 10.8% return upon invested capital.

Up to this date there has been no complaint filed with this office by anyone in relation to the operation of the Uniform Small Loan Act, or any of the offices.

My recommendation is that inasmuch as many of these companies have operated for less than one year, and that because the expense of beginning operations is higher than later expenses will be, and the net earnings on capital disclosed are not a fair criterion, that the Act remain in the statutes without change until the next session of the legislature when a wider comparison of income costs and net profits can be obtained.

It occurs to me that the competition will regulate the maximum charge for interest, and that in all probability the rates charged in the next two years will decrease by reason of such competition.

Respectfully submitted,
C. F. SCHWENKER
Commissioner of Banking.

BOB BEATS CHI SOX AND BURLEIGH DOWNS BROOKLYN, 8 AND 4

Yankees Keep in Step by Mauling St. Louis Browns, 10 to 3

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
A. P. Sports Writer

MONDAY'S battles along the major league front failed to shake up the standings to any marked degree but they did give Burleigh Grimes and Bob Grove a chance to show why they're the leading pitchers in their respective leagues.

Grimes, whose spitball seems to puzzle the batsmen more each passing year, pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8 to 4 victory over Brooklyn and enabled them to retain their half game lead on the field in the National league. Grove, fastest of the fast ball pitchers, held the Chicago White Sox to six hits as Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics turned in an 8 to 2 triumph and remained eight and a half games ahead of their nearest rivals in the American league.

HAVE IMPRESSIVE MARKS

Grimes now can show 14 victories against one defeat. Grove's record is 14 and 2.

The Pirates made Grimes' task easy by getting to Johnny Morrison early in the game. Their 12 hits included home runs by Paul Waner and Adam Comorosky. Morrison's setback at the hands of his old teammates was his first since he returned to the majors from the American association. The curve-ball star had won six straight games before he met his match in Grimes.

The Cubs and Giants kept step with the Pirates, Chicago trouncing the Boston Braves, 11 to 3 behind Hal Carlson's five-hit pitching while the Giants were beating the Cincinnati Reds for the third straight time, 3 to 0. Larry Benton gave the Reds only three hits, no two in any one inning.

In the other National league engagement, the Phillies made it three out of four from the fading St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 5 despite four hits by Chick Hafey. The Cardinal outfielder's performance gave him eight successive hits.

Grove was given considerable opposition at Chicago by Harold McKinn, a rookie. The A's were leading by only 2 to 1 going into the eighth but drove McKinn out of the box with a six run barrage in that frame.

YANKS BURY BROWNS

The Yankees kept step by burying the St. Louis Browns under a 10 to 3 count, hammering three Browns pitchers for 16 hits including Lou Gehrig's twenty-second homer of the year. George Fingers granted only four hits and retired the first 13 men to face him in order.

Washington and Detroit split a double bill, the Senators grabbed the first, 5 to 4, at George Uhle's expense when Johnson's error permitted the winning run to score in the tenth. The Tigers slugged out 16 hits to take the second game, 16 to 6. Four runs coming over when Marty McManus hammered a home run with the bases filled in the first inning.

Four runs in the sixth game the Cleveland Indians a 5 to 2 triumph over Danny MacFayden and the Boston Red Sox.

SAMMY MANDELL SETTLES ROW WITH BOXING BODY

Chicago —(P)—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, has ironed out his difficulties with the National Boxing Association and the ring body has sanctioned his title match with Tony Ganzoneri here Aug. 2. Mandell was placed on the N. B. A.'s "blacklist" for not defending his crown often enough. However, Manager Kane has promised more activity for his charge and the association accepted it in good faith.

Loughran Has Hard Time Making Required Weights

BY JOHN J. ROMANO
Copyright 1929.

NEW YORK—Tommy Loughran has buckled down to hard work for his fight with James J. Braddock on July 18. The contest will be over the championship route, 15 rounds, and this among other things is being considered as one of the reasons Tommy has swung into training so soon.

A clean liver and moderate in everything he does, Loughran does not need the amount of work to himself for a fight that other fighters need. It is public belief that the light heavyweight champion has found it hard during the past year to whittle his weight down to the class limit and has done his best fighting around the 182 pound mark. Check this over. For the past 18 months Tommy has just skinned under the 175 pound bar. That is, when he was fighting for the right to be considered the runner-up for the title and in defense of his crown after he won it. But to say that Loughran weighed 185 3-4 pounds for Ernie Schaff in Boston last month is stretching the truth. Allow a few pounds for street shoes and underwear and one finds that 182 pounds would be nearer the actual weight.

Another thing, for the Armand Emmanuel fight in Los Angeles last February, Loughran did not work, confining his road jaunts to walks around Westlake park. He worked out without a jersey in the gym and the work was devoid of anything resembling sweat producing exercise. He boxed six rounds daily, something he had to do, as he was pitted against a fast boxer, and when it came time to weigh in Tommy tilted the beam at 182 3-4 pounds. This is proof enough that the light heavyweight champion is really having a hard time packing on sufficient weight to cause the fans to accept him as a "big" fellow, and yet finds it hard to scale down to 175 pounds and retain his full strength. A fighter does not tempt fate by skimming under a specified weight for a solid year or more unless the figure is one requiring effort on his part.

Braddock is one of the best men the champion has faced and making the weight is more important than the sort of fight Tommy will make. Loughran's early arrival in a training camp is not alone due to the fact that he requires hard work to prepare himself for a vigorous defense of his title, but rather to a desire to pare down excess poundage gradually, retain his strength so that he can lay off the pace in the early rounds and then come on for a rousing finish. Loughran is known for the stretch runs he has made in the past. Apparently beaten on points in the early part of a fight, Tommy has come on to nose out his opponent in a driving charge down the home stretch.

BILL WRIGLEY AFTER NEW PLAYERS FOR CUBS

Chicago —(P)—William Wrigley, Jr., is so determined that his Cubs win the National league pennant this year that he has placed another million dollars at the disposal of Manager Joe McCarthy for new talent. Lavish offers have been made to St. Louis for Frankie Frisch and to the New York Giants for the immediate release of Freddie Lindstrom, but those clubs have pennant ideas of their own and refused to sell them.

Third base is such a perplexing problem to Manager McCarthy that Wrigley has sent word to his scouts to spare no expense in obtaining a star for that position. Another pitcher is also sought.

Joyce Wethered Learned Golf From Bobby Jones

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1929.

NEW YORK—Miss Joyce Wethered, who stands as high in international golf as Helen Wills stands in lawn tennis, attributes her magnificent showing in the recent British ladies' tournament to Bobby Jones, no less. And thereby hangs rather an interesting tale.

Three years ago when the English girl retired from tourney play she was pretty well fed up on golf, and felt that, save in the way of pleasurable exercise the game had nothing more to offer her.

It was about that time she saw the great Atlantan in action and studying him she found a new and vitalizing interest in the art of golfing. Principally she saw in the American's play a perfection in timing. That deliberate, almost lethargic swing accelerating gradually until the club head has attained its greatest speed a few inches before the ball is struck, as well as a few inches after the impact.

So with her as she went into seclusion Miss Wethered took the lessons she had received from Bobby Jones, studying them in private, applying them in games against friends. And then at length, with French girls invading England to win for the third time the British ladies' trophy, with Miss Glenna Collett geared to bring the cup to America, this English disciple of Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., came forth upon the links at St. Andrews and played golf such as no other woman has ever played.

In her swing was that lazy impression one gets in watching Bobby Jones, that manner of seeming to carry the club head onward after the ball is struck instead of immediately coming around and up. She showed, in other words, that she had borrowed successfully from Bobby Jones the ideal swing and now, as she goes once more into retirement, she may have the satisfaction of knowing that her position in women's golf is distinctive and that among the golfers of the world, irrespective of sex, she is one of the few in whom artistry is as clearly indicated as physical qualifications.

BOX COMPANY DROPS GAME TO DENMARK

Lucky Homer That Bounds Over Fence Counts Against Appleton Club

The Konz Box and Lumber company baseball team dropped a hard fought game to Denmark at Denmark Sunday by a score of 12 to 3. W. Murphy started pitching for the Konz team and allowed seven hits until the sixth inning when he retired in favor of Laabs, other Appleton hurler.

Denmark started the scoring in the first inning when it counted 3 runs in a walk and two hits, one of which was a lucky homer that bounced over the left field fence. They pushed two more counters over the plate in the second inning on a hit and an error.

The Konz team came to life in the third frame and rallied to score five runs on five hits and an error to knot the count at five all. They scored three more runs in the fourth, and the final tally in the eighth. Denmark scored a run in the fifth, fourth in the sixth and two in the eighth to clinch the game.

Miller was the batting star for the Denmark team getting four hits on five trips to the plate while Mike King of the local team shared the honors also getting four hits out of five tries.

GREEN BAY'S COST OF GOVERNMENT WAS GREATER LAST YEAR

Per Capita Indebtedness Increased $12.91 Due to School Bond Issue

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent)

Washington—The per capita cost of running Green Bay's city government in 1928 increased just 9 cents last year as compared with 1927, but the city's per capita debt increased $12.91, due to a bond issue for schools.

In Wisconsin cities on which the Department of Commerce has reported to date the per capita cost of running city governments has been: Green Bay, $31.65; Oshkosh, $36.13; Racine, $24.77; Kenosha, $33.88; Sheboygan, $33.47; and La Crosse, $37.86.

The payments for operations and maintenance of the general departments of Green Bay amounted in 1928 to $1,142,746, or $31.65 per capita, as against $31.56 per capita in 1927, and $18.44 in 1917.

Operation and maintenance of the waterworks in 1928 cost $84,065; interest on debt, $158,966; and outlays for permanent improvements, including those for public service enterprises, $1,168,885, bringing the total payments of Green Bay's city government for all purposes to $2,552,661. Of this amount, $34,972 represents payments by a city department to another on account of services.

Total revenue receipts of Green Bay last year were $1,944,697, or $53.87 per capita. This was $560,921 more than total payments for the year, exclusive of outlays for permanent improvements, but $607,984 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. Payments in excess of revenue receipts were met by proceeds of bond issues. The total receipts also include that $34,972 paid by one department to another.

Prune Climbing Roses As Blossoming Is Ended

BY FURMAN LLOYD MULFORD (U. S. Department of Agriculture)

Climbing roses should be pruned as soon as they are through flowering or the long sprays may be cut while in bloom for indoor decoration, without fear of injury to the plant.

This year's flowers have come on shoots that have sprung from wood of last year's growth and likewise flowers of the next year will be borne on canes that will be formed later this year.

Every possible encouragement should be given to the formation of vigorous new shoots this year. At blooming time many of these already have started as vigorous young suckers from near the base of the plant. They may be stimulated by cutting away all the wood that has borne resented 58.3 per cent of the total 1928 revenue, as against 56.2 per cent in 1927 and 72.3 per cent in 1917 while earnings of public service enterprises operated by the city represented 10 per cent of the total 1928 revenue as against 11.8 per cent in 1927 and 0.1 per cent in 1917.

The amount of property taxes collected in Green Bay increased 14.4 per cent from 1917 to 1927, and 23.4 per cent from 1927 to 1928. The per capita property taxes in 1928 were $31.43; in 1927, $25.90; in 1917, $12.75. The net indebtedness of Green Bay on Dec. 31 was $3,000,500, of which $319,000 was for public service enterprises. This means a debt of $32.12 per capita, as against $20.21 per capita in 1927 and $20.35 per capita in 1917.

Assessed valuation of property in Green Bay subject to ad valorem taxes for city corporation in 1928 was $57,252,072. Total taxes levied for all purposes amounted to $1,004,725, of which $1,404,247, or 73.7 per cent, was levied for city corporation; $44,257, or 2.3 per cent, for the state; and $456,221, or 24 per cent, for the county. The per capita levy for all purposes was $52.76 in 1928, $47.87 in 1927, and $17.47 in 1917.

blossoms as soon as the flowers are fading or before. This should include not only the shoots that have borne the flowers but also the year's canes from which they sprung. With the removal of this old wood all the strength of the plant will go into producing new wood for flowering next year.

Where a fence or other low support is to be covered, encourage as many shoots as possible; over a gateway or other high support, reduce the number of canes permitted to grow to three or four.

Such strong growing varieties as American Pillar, Dr. W. W. Van Fleet, Silver Moon, and Christine Wright under favorable conditions will make a growth of more than 20 feet in a season when treated in this manner.

Some of the hardy climbing roses, known as pillar roses, do not make more than six or eight feet of growth in a year so that even the reduction of the number of canes will not get the growth heretofore suggested. Occasionally a new vigorous shoot will start from near the end of an old one. When this occurs it is possible to get flowering wood farther from the root than is ordinarily the case and then it is often practicable to use the plant for covering a pergola or other high support.

Climbing tea roses and climbing hybrid perpetuals bear their flowers on wood of this year's growth that many shoot from that of last year, or older wood, or even from growth of the current season, so the pruning of these plants is simply thinning out weak shoots and surplus growth and should largely be done in the spring.

Chautauqua Speaker

ELWOOD T. BAILEY

A dynamic and dramatic orator, with a keen sense of humor—a close student of social and economic conditions as they deal with business and humanity. These qualities describe accurately Elwood T. Bailey, California business man and speaker on Tuesday evening's chautauqua program at Wilson school grounds, whose ability as an interesting and entertaining speaker is known from coast to coast. His mind is stored with brilliant and beautiful gems of genius—his lecture sparkles with wit and wisdom—and throughout his address sane sense is driven home with graphic phrase.

His lecture, "Full Speed Ahead" is a concrete message, built on facts gathered from a long study of human nature in business, society and religion. This orator has thrilled hundreds of thousands in every part of the country. Those who miss him will regret it. It is particularly desired that people who think they "do not like lectures" should attend.

WOMEN DRESS TO PLEASE SELVES

Three Types of Ensembles Being Designed for Fall Wear

BY AILEEN LAMONT New York—The old controversy continues as to whether women dress for men or other women. The arguments seldom take into consideration the millions of women who dress for themselves and to please themselves. They are accountable for the fact that there are at least three general types of ensembles for the streets for fall now being designed, are equally smart. One is straight lined hanging from the shoulders with a seven-eighths coat collared with fur. Another is of the flared skirt type both as to dress and coat, with self material collar and cuffs. A third has a coat of finger tip length and is banded with fur at the hips, stressing the hip line.

being attained in the manufacture of cork, wood and cork and wood necklaces and bracelets used on the beach and in the water at the summer resorts. Sometimes the wood beads are studded with ivory or gold. The most popular necklaces of the above type, however, seem to imitate coral. They are of the choker type.

These are the days of riotous color on the beaches and on the golf courses but when it comes to the dancing floors in the evening, white has its full need of admirers. The reason is obvious. Nothing sets off a golden bronze tan like white and since women are spending hours and infinite pains in acquiring such tans, they wish naturally to show them to the best advantage. That is why the white evening frocks are successes. Scarfs have slipped down, not in popularity but in position. One favored place to wear them now is around the waist with the long point hanging over one hip. Bags of the same material and designs as the scarfs are very smart. One evening wrap is made of a huge scarf with loops through which to slip the wrists at either end.

MAY ISSUE STAMP TO COMMEMORATE KELLOGG TREATY

State and Postal Departments Get Requests from Societies

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Now that all the signatory nations have ratified the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war and the peace dove is cooling more comfortably than it ever could before, the government may one of these days issue a special postage stamp to commemorate the treaty.

The state department and the postoffice department have before them a request of the American branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom for a special two-cent stamp whose design would reproduce the signing of the pact by President Coolidge at the White House and it is understood that both departments are considerably interested in the idea.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, favors the peace stamp proposal. The stamp could be issued by the postoffice department either with or without the authorization of congress. The state department naturally would be interested because the recent ratification of the Kellogg pact by the Japanese diet represented the consummation of one of the major strokes of modern American diplomacy.

SEES SYMBOL

The Women's League for Peace and Freedom argues that special postage stamps have been issued in honor of far less momentous events and that the peace stamp would symbolize not an event of world-wide significance and the obvious intent of President Hoover to continue and extend our efforts toward world peace.

Instance of a peace stamp at about this time would come with extraordinary timeliness, for the world peace outlook, what with the Kellogg pact and the expected visit of British Premier Ramsay MacDonald for a heart-to-heart talk with President Hoover, is unusually bright. There may be a war cloud here and there, but none is clearly dark.

ARF OPTIMISTIC

Peace societies such as the Women's League are very optimistic about it all and no less than ecstatic over President Hoover's strong pronouncements in favor of armament reduction. They believe that various other measures more or less directly connected with the general peaceful trend are now bound to be effected and that their position in support of these measures has been vastly strengthened.

Next winter's senate provisions will take up Elihu Root's formula for American adherence to the World Court protocol, which is favored by the peace societies. Previously the senate agreed to enter the World court with five reservations. Other nations choked on the fifth reservation, which would have given the United States discretionary power to prevent court decisions on matters in which we claimed to have an interest. The senate will undoubtedly have another try at adhering to the World court and it is com-

SEEK NEW MONKEY TO FILL QUARTERS OF THE LATE PETER

Have you a little monkey in your home? If you have won't you donate him to the Albia park zoo for the remainder of the summer?

That's the appeal being made for zoo enthusiasts who are mourning the loss of Peter, three year old monkey and one of the oldest residents of the zoo, who died last Friday morning from "consumption" of too many peanuts.

Since the death of Peter, there seems to be something wrong at the zoo, it is reported. The empty cage stands out like a missing front tooth, and the other animals have lost their spirit since Peter died.

Fifteen new animal cages are to be constructed at the zoo, and a new monkey can be assured of modern quarters with all of the latest conveniences.

monly believed that the Root formula with Hoover's support will be accepted.

The senate will also consider ratification of the Pan-American arbitration, which is a far-reaching document although it does not outlaw war as the Kellogg treaty does. The Pan-American treaty, which has now been signed by all the American republics concerned, binds the contracting parties to submit to arbitration all disputes, judicial in character. Specifically, these disputes include the interpretation or execution, all questions of international law, existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of international obligation and the nature or extent of reparation to be paid in event of breach of an international obligation.

The only possible snag in ratification of this treaty lies in the fact that it doesn't provide for senate ratification of separate decisions or specific cases arising under the treaty.

Efforts will also be made to pass one of the several bills and resolutions—including those of Senator Burton and Congressman Porter and Fish—providing for regulation of arms shipments to nations at war.

TAKE UP GAS TREATY

Further effort will be made in the senate to obtain ratification of the poison gas protocol. Fifteen nations have adhered to this, most of them in the last year. The list includes Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy. A majority of members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee is now said to favor the outlawry of poison gas in warfare.

There is some hope that the expected Hoover-MacDonald conference will lead toward an arbitration treaty with Great Britain, under which the two nations would promise to submit to arbitration any dispute arising between them. It may also be that Hoover and MacDonald will come to some understanding which will hold up construction of most of the 15 new cruisers voted by congress although contracts for the first two have just been let.

CHAPTER 30

THE WOMAN IN BLACK

"Precisely. The 'poker game' that cracked the town," MacNair echoed. "The town of Torridity 30 years ago. How it cracked it we don't know."

"And what — who was the stake?" I breathed.

MacNair gave his cold-blooded laugh. "Ah! the stake. That will be another part in our pattern."

"And the players?"

"Ogden would be one of them," MacNair drawled with maddening deliberation.

"And Dillon was the other," I shouted.

He seemed to ponder this. "I don't know so much about that. Who is Dillon?"

"You know perfectly well who Dillon is!" I stormed.

Again the cold-blooded laugh. He got up and I followed him to his car.

After he left, I went slowly back to my den. After some thought I took up the telephone and was presently talking with an old colleague who lives in Los Angeles.

After breakfast the next morning I telephoned Deacon. To my sorrow, he had no word of the children and I strengthened my resolve to start for Skull Valley if they were not back by noon. I went out into the garden. As I approached the patio door, voices came to me. One of them was "rs. Moffit's" dismal treble. The other, a woman's voice also I did not recognize. They came into view. Dumbfounded, I slipped behind a hydrangea bush.

Mrs. Moffit was showing my lilies to The Woman in Black.

I did not doubt that she was Mrs. Lundy. "Tail," "angular," and "all sinew and bone and tight-shut mouth," Hubbard had described her. Her long black coat and dress were unrelieved by the slightest touch of color and I wondered how Deacon's men had missed her.

"The lily is the vessel of purity," Her voice reminded me of a priest or one of the mystic religions. "These are beautiful."

"Mr. Peebles looks after them as if they were babies," Mrs. Moffit sighed. "I'm sure he won't mind if you want to pick a few."

I thought it time to reveal myself and I stepped from behind the hydrangea.

"Have your friend help herself, Mrs. Moffit," I said lavishly.

My housekeeper started. "Oh! I didn't know you were there, Mr. Peebles. Why, why — this is Mrs. Lundy, the demonstrator of our circle."

I bowed. "Mrs. Moffit said you were — forgive me if I did not understand."

"Demonstrator of the Forty-ninth Circle in the Fifth Realm, Cosmic Indulgence," she informed me serenely.

Light broke upon me. "Ah! Cosmic Indulgence!"

"You have heard of our beautiful faith, Mr. Peebles?"

"Him?" I said. "Yes. From Mrs. Moffit." The latter cast a doubtful eye at me. "Do you mind coming in to my study for a few minutes before you go?"

She did not seem surprised. "Of course not. We are always glad to answer questions about our faith."

I took her through the patio door, leaving Mrs. Moffit giggling at our backs.

"Mrs. Lundy," I said briskly, "my questions have nothing whatever to do with Cosmic Indulgence."

"I don't wish to be impertinent," I said earnestly. "Tell me, have you been questioned by the police?"

She opened her eyes. "The police? Goodness, no! What about, man?"

"Where have you been ever since Friday night?"

"I was in my room at the Central Hotel. I was meditating. Four days of continuous meditation are required of the priestesses of our faith every month."

"Indeed?" I began to understand. "You called on Mr. Andrew Ogden last week, didn't you?"

"I did."

"He gave you a check for $1,000?" "What has that got to do with you?"

"Evidently," I said watching her closely. "You do not know that Andrew Ogden was murdered in his library last Friday night."

She looked at me, gaping. "Murdered!"

I explained the circumstances of the murder and the check stub. "Do you mean the police want to see me about that check? It was a contribution to our cause."

I started at her, astonished. "Do you mean to say Ogden gave you $1,000 for this — your faith?"

"Certainly."

I fell silent. Andrew had hated humbug of every description. He couldn't have fallen for any such nonsense as Cosmic Indulgence.

"Mrs. Lundy," I said placatingly, "you must forgive me for going into personal matters, but I am determined to get to the bottom of this murder. Are you, or were you, the wife of Joe Lundy, who kept a resort in Torridity 30 years ago?"

She seemed to freeze before my eyes. I leaned forward.

"My niece Lucy is engaged to Ogden's son, Jerry. Jerry is suspected of killing his father. I believe he is innocent and I want you to help me prove he is. Won't you do so by answering my questions?"

"All right," the woman yielded suddenly. "But you are touching on a phase of my life I have tried to forget. Yes, I am Joe Lundy's wife."

"Were you married to him then?"

"Yes. But I did not live with him in Torridity. A week there was enough. The town was abandoned when the mines were closed down. My husband was shot about that time."

"Shot?" I exclaimed. "Is he dead?"

"He might as well be. He was shot in the head and he has been feeble-minded ever since. The bullet creased the scalp. He remembers nothing about the town — or the shooting."

The tragedy of her life clouded my spirit.

"Since you were at Torridity for a week or so you will know something of the town at that time," I suggested diffidently.

"It was a place of evil!" she replied scathingly.

"Did you hear of a man named Peterson while you were down there?" I asked. "Alex Peterson?"

"Alex Peterson?" the woman cried in so tense a voice that I was startled. "Alex Peterson shot my husband."

ANSWER QUESTIONS TO ENTER CONTEST OF RANCH SHOW BOY

Some Lucky Appleton Youth to Be Entertained by Show Officials

More details on the selection of a Appleton boy as a representative of the 101 Ranch Wild West show arrived this morning with the coming to the city of N. Edward Beck, general press representative of the big show.

Boys are being selected in every city on the itinerary of Wild West show this season to become members of the official family of the circus and what small boy doesn't want to be a cowboy?

Col. Zach T. Miller when the plan was first discussed at the big ranch at Ponca City, Okla., last winter spoke of the waning popularity of the horse and the surprising lack of knowledge the average small boy has of "man's best friend." And so the plan of electing a representative from among the best informed boys, in the matter of horses, was evolved.
And kids, its simple! Nothing to it!

WHAT AWAITS LUCKY LADS

But first lets tell you something of what awaits the lucky boy.

On Tuesday, July 16, 101 Ranch
Wild West show arrives in Appleton for two performances, the official Appleton 101 Ranch Boy, together with his pal, meets the show. He will be taken in tow by one of the shows executives and shown all over the big circus lot. He will eat in the cook house, just the same as all the executives, cowboys, Indians and star performers of the big show. Then he will ride in the parade during the morning and in the afternoon, together with a guest, he will attend the matinee performance of the show. He will eat supper in the cook house and, if he wants to, can attend the evening performance also.
He will meet Col. Zach T. Miller, director general of the Wild West and Zach T. Miller, Jr., 7-year-old worlds youngest cowboy. "Suicide"
Ted Elder's world's champion trick rider, will welcome him to the land of make believe and Col. Zach Mu-hall, dean of western plainsmen, and one-time governor of Oklahoma territory, will tell him how he killed redskins 50 years ago.

WILL MEET INDIANS GALORE

He'll meet Indians in person, including Chief Sitting Bull 2nd, a survivor of the Custer massacre, and Chief Return-from Scout who heads the 200 Indians carried by the show.

He can watch the elephant men get the big "bulls" ready for the parade and the regular performances, and he can do it all at close range and without fear of being shooed away by an irate and badly heckled canvassman. And, kids, best of all, the boy selected will be mailed every two weeks a route card of the 101 Ranch Wild West, which will let him know just where HIS circus is playing at the time. Appleton 101 Ranch boy will also have his picture in the 1929 Route Book of the show, which is a complete history of the year's tour published at the end of each season and mailed to members of the show and their families.

All in all it's going to be a great experience and an honor for some Post-Crescent junior reader and here's how the boy is going to be selected.

Here are 10 questions about horses
None them are hard.

If you are 12 years of age or older write the answers to these questions and then in fifty words, written on one side of paper only, tell why you believe that the horse is man's best friend.

HERE'S 10 QUESTIONS

Easy isn't it? Well here are the questions:

1. Were there horses in America when Columbus arrived?
2. What is the difference between the mustang and the broncho?
3. What is a thoroughbred?
4. Are polo ponies really ponies?
5. What is a cayuse?
6. Is the mule the same as a donkey?
7. Can a horse jump a barrier higher than 5 feet?
8. Is the horse of 16 hands large or small?
9. Who was Pegasus?
10. What is a filly?

LEGISLATORS FACE IMPORTANT WORK IN NEXT FEW WEEKS

Gasoline and Income Tax Bills Will Bother Lawmakers

Madison — (P)—Both houses of Wisconsin's legislature resumed work at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, after a ten-day vacation.

Although the session has now been going on more than six months, most of the important legislation is still ahead of the lawmakers. Appropriation bills, which are to provide funds with which to run the state's business, including educational, charitable and penal institutions, have not been ground through the legislative mill.

Taxation, a spectre which rose to annoy the members of the 1927 session after they had passed what is known as the Zimmerman income tax bill, has yet to receive action from the present body.

Early in the 1929 session, an income tax bill, sponsored by Governor
Kohler, was introduced by Senator
H. B. Daggett. The measure was designed to reduce taxes of persons with small incomes. It has, however, been constantly revised without making its appearance on the floor of either house, and it is understood, the measure is not yet ready for action by the legislature.

A proposal to increase the gasoline tax is also before the session. From the dozen bills on that subject introduced early in the session, but two survive. Both would raise the tax from 2 cents to 3 cents. One has the approval of Governor Kohler. The other is by Senator Thomas
M. Duncan, Milwaukee Socialist

BUS AND TRUCK COS.
REPORT GOOD BUSINESS

Minneapolis—Reports from bus and truck companies for the first half year in this state indicate that profits have been excellent with the profits from moving of freight far in excess of those from bus transport.

Duncan's measure, while increasing the gas tax, would repeal the personal property tax on automobiles.

The Senate has yet to dispose of a batch of bills passed by the Assembly, covering the public utility field.
These measures range from a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow the state to engage in the business of generating and selling electric energy, to a bill which would permit municipalities to compete with privately owned power plants.

SMALL LOANS ACT TO BE DISCUSSED

Legislators Will Debate Subject Over Radio Station
WTMJ

Milwaukee—(P)—Senator Oscar H.
Morris and Lieutenant-Governor Henry A. Huber will discuss the small loan act now on Wisconsin's statute books on the WTMJ Thirty Minutes with Wisconsin's Lawmakers' program on Tuesday, July 9 from 7 to 7:30 p. m. Senator Morris will take his stand for the small loan act, which he declares to have been a help to many thousands. Lieutenant-Governor Huber, active in the present fight for the repeal of this law, will take up the issue against it.

"I maintain some of the state's needs made for the repeal of this act are far-fetched," is the statement of Senator Morris, "especially so when one considers the 50,000 families who were unable to secure credit from any source save the small loan law a help to them."

"Should the small loan act be taken from our statute books it would destroy the credit structure which has been, in a large measure, the

COLUMBUS dreamed of a shorter way to India and set out across the "Sea of Darkness" seeking it. And across his path he found a new world. It is thus that many discoveries are made in the field of modern scientific research.
Striving for some definite goal, laboratory workers disclose new worlds of helpfulness to humanity unsuspected when their search began.

For more than half a century, the scientists of the Bell System have continuously sought for means of transmitting the voice by telephone more quickly, more clearly, more cheaply and to ever increasing distances. Seeking for constant improvement in telephone service, they have brought to view new and unsought opportunities of service in other fields.

It is because of this fundamental research for the telephone that amplifying devices have been developed of immense value to the medical profession; that those with impaired hearing have been enabled to participate again in the affairs of home and office; that sound and motion pictures have been synchronized; that even the power of speech has been restored to those who have lost the use of their vocal cords.

These are among "the new worlds" that have been discovered during the search for "a shorter way" for the spoken word.

MARKET RECOVERS AFTER LOSING SOME GROUND IN FLURRY

Fears That Money Would Go Over 9 Per Cent Are Not Realized

BY STANLEY PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—After moving irregularly higher in the early trading today, the stock market ran into a brief flurry of selling, only to head upward again in impressive fashion by early afternoon.
Call money held firm at 9 per cent and there was some calling of loans, giving rise to fears that it might go higher. It was rumored that some of the larger banks were endeavoring to prevent any further increase. The wave of selling appeared to have been set in motion by a bear drive against the market, based on predictions that production during the last half would decline from the heavy output of the first half. Also the liquidation was swelled by fears that the market was due for a corrective action.
An important item in the day's news was the Automobile Chamber of Commerce's figures on production, for the first six months of the year. While output reached a new high record at 3,380,088 units, 56 per cent of the total was supplied by the largest low priced producers, so that the dollar value obviously showed a much smaller gain than the unit output.
The American Iron and Steel Institute's estimate of June ingot production was regarded as highly favorably showing operations maintained at 95.56 per cent of rated capacity a negligible decline from the 95.59 per cent of May. The day's news also included an increase of 10 per cent in American Telephone's operating income for the first five months of the year.
American Telephone mounted nearly 5 points to a record price at 238 1/2 on the five months income figures, although for May, the latest month reported, income fell off slightly. So-called hot weather stocks, such as Coca Cola, and Borden, were also well bought, the two named reached new high ground. Philadelphia Company jumped 15 points to touch 200 for the first time, and International Business Machines, Lackawanna Railroad, Missouri Pacific Preferred and Snyder Packing Preferred, were among other issues reaching new tops. American Machine and Foundry rose nearly 9 points, and Greene Cananea, Standard Gas and American Radiator were well bought. U. S. Steel, after selling at its previous high of 20 1/2, fell to 19 1/2, but Bethlehem was in good demand, rising a couple of points. In the motors, Auburn dropped 9 points, General Motors, Chrysler, Packard and Nash 2 or 3 points, General Electric slipped back 6 points, and such shares as Westinghouse Manufacturing, Allied Chemical, North American, Atchison and Eastman Kodak lost 3 points or more. Cluett Peabody dropped 5 points to 53, a new 1929 low.
The list showed much improvement in the final hour when a number of issues made sharp advances. Cluett Peabody jumped 12 points to 65, a new high, while American Telephone and Telegraph established a new high when it touched 240 1/2. United States Steel reached 20 1/2 again. Southern Railway, National Cash Register, Midland Steel Products Preferred, Montgomery Ward and Abraham and Strauss were up from three to six points each. The close was strong. Total sales approximated 4,000,000 shares.

PRICES ARE STEADY ON SWINE MARKET

Shippers Are Good Buyers; Big Killers Were Slow to Start

Chicago—(AP)—Prices started steady compared with the best levels of the day before and some of the best light lams sold at $12.00 @ 12.15 from the outset. Shippers were good buyers from the start, while big killers were a little slow to get under way. Fresh supply was estimated at 25,000 for the local yards, against more than 29,000 the corresponding day last week. Of these only about 1,000 were direct to packers while sellers had only 4,000 held over from the day before. Total supply of hogs at principal markets for the day was posted at 104,700, against 116,200 the corresponding day last week.
With a fresh supply posted at 7,000 for the local yards, sellers again started out after fully steady values for the stock on hand. Of the supply few steers showed prime quality and sellers have been able to dispose of even plainer kinds well during the last week or so and then again looked for a good clearance today. Total supply of cattle at principal markets, was posted at 35,300, against 30,000 a week ago.
Holders of fat lambs asked steady values for the stock on hand, but it was a little late before the trade started. Strictly prime lambs were held at $15.25 @ 15.50. Of the reported 741 cars of all kinds of stock, only 30 were "back" at the opening of the market.

HEAVY SELLING CAUSES WHEAT PRICES TO DROP

Reports of Beneficial Rain in Argentina Starts Downward Move

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago—(AP)—General selling on a big scale broke out in the wheat market today just before the close and carried prices down with a rush. The selling, which followed reports of beneficial rains in Argentina, revealed that for at least the time being the wheat market was devoid of aggressive support. This appeared to be largely owing to the fact that United States and Canadian government crop reports were due tomorrow and that recent buyers preferred trying to realize immediate profits rather than incur risks of awaiting further upturns in prices.
Associated with persistent selling which showed itself at times in the wheat market today were Winnipeg advices that 36 stations in the Canadian prairie provinces had received an average of one third of an inch of rain and that considerable rainfall night had not been officially reported. It was contended in some quarters that these rains had been of material benefit, which however, would not be apparent until after four or five days of growing weather.
On the other hand, a leading Chicago crop expert telegraphing today from Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, said that between Weyburn and Moosejaw the wheat crop prospect is the poorest he had ever seen. Fifty per cent of the plants are fired and dying, with farmers starting to plow under the wheat, the expert said. Another Chicago crop authority wired today from Macleod, Alberta, that advices from districts to the north representing 5,000,000 acres were sensationally bad.
Corn was quiet with some speculative selling in evidence. The feature was buying of September wheat against sales of December which widened the spread somewhat. Crop comments were rather mixed.
Oats averaged lower on scattered selling based on belief that recent rains northwest had improved the oats crop outlook.

GRIGSBY-GRUNOW IS MARKET LEADER

Radio Stock Scores 20 1-4 Points Rise in Heavy Trading at Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—Grigsby-Grunow gained 20 1-4 to a new high of 192 and several utility issues scoring new high marks. Featured trading on the Chicago Stock exchange today.
Grigsby-Grunow opened at 175 1-2 but quickly rose above its previous high and before noon reached 192 1/2. The stock's profit taking at this point and the issue settled back to 187 1/2 for a net gain of 13 3/4. The new high is 12 3/4 above the previous high mark March. From this March peak the issue, on unfavorable reports concerning the condition of the company, dropped to a low mark of 119 or 75 below the high mark registered today. Since that time the price has been steadily moving upward to its present point.
Other radio shares, including United States Radio, making a gain of 1 to 35, and Zenith, a gain of 2 1/2 to 45 1/2, moved change as higher territory. Steinite, losing 2 1/2 to 27 1/4, was the only issue in this group to display any noticeable weakness.
Three utility shares, Middle West selling at 227, Central and South west at 100 1-2 and Commonwealth Edison at 301 1-2, tallied new peaks. Public service no par and Western Power Light and Telephone Company gave ground.
The automobile section opened rather listlessly this morning. Auburn was the only stock to show any important change as the issue sold at high as 370 and settled back later to 365 for a gain of 5 above the previous close.
Bastian Blessing company, according to L. B. Blessing, vice president, will probably require additional business amounting to approximately $400,000 a year from its new affiliation with the Federal Soda Fountain company of Boston. The latter company will handle Bastian Blessing Soda fountains and carbonators exclusively in the 23 Canadian states.
The Bastian Blessing company has not heretofore been active in that territory.
Curtis Manufacturing company for the fiscal year ended June 4, 1929, announced profits amounting to $771,752, equal to $3.56 a share on the outstanding stock, compared with profits of $319,046, or $4.09 a share for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1928.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company reports its May gross receipts at $9,210,357, compared with $8,415,946 in May, 1928. The company's net operating income, however, was below that of the corresponding month last year, the figures being $3,840,379 for last May, as against $3,405,872 in May, 1928.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE BONDS RISE 5 POINTS

New York—(AP)—American Telephone Convertible 4 1/2s rated ahead of the bond market today, rising more than 5 points in the early trading to another record price above 157 as the shares sold at a new peak. The turnover in this active bond proceeded at a rapid rate.
As usual, the convertibles proved to be the lively issues. Reading Coal and Iron 6s maintained their activity of yesterday with a rise of more than a point on large transactions. Interest in this issue has revived coincident with denied reports that the company was planning to generate electricity by use of anthracite waste. The offering, 5 per cent bonds matured up 4 points to 104 1/2. International Telephone 4 1/2s, an other active share privilege debenture, made up most of yesterday's decline. Convertible rails inclined to softness.
Trading in all but a few standard issues was virtually at a standstill. The limited interest was scattered through the various groups, giving support to Texas and Pacific 5s, Utah Light and Traction 5s, Anglo Chile Nitrate 7s and some of the foreign sugars. The latter are receiving better attention in view of the plans for output curtailment, as discussed by Cuban, Javanese and European producers at meetings starting in Amsterdam, Holland, tomorrow.
United States government issues and the foreign list ruled steady on unimportant transactions.

State Leader Outlines History of Agricultural Colleges

The history of agricultural colleges and home making courses in counties for women, was theme of a talk given by Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, state leader, at the opening session of Achievement Day exercises at the First Methodist church Wednesday morning. Approximately 100 county women were present.

The speaker pointed out the necessity of local clubs and stated that it was absolutely necessary for them to make reports to get federal appropriations and support.

The opening address was given by Marvin Schmitt, president of the chamber of commerce. His talk was followed by community singing led by Mrs. Edna Puttkamer, last year's leader. She also was in charge of games and stunts.

Mrs. Robert Doers gave a report of the Seymour club. Mrs. John Schottler, county 1, Appleton, was chairman of the opening meeting.

A play, "Grandmother's Dream," depicting the various stages of life from the cradle to old age, was presented by the Seymour group. The play was followed by more community singing.

Ladies of the First Methodist church served a dinner in the church parlors Wednesday noon. Several members of the club also were present at the dinner.

C. C. CONFERS WITH COUNTY ROAD GROUP

Explain Plans for Rerouting Highway 10 to Outagamie Supervisors

Plans for rerouting federal highway 10 to bring it into Appleton over the Outagamie-Calumet road through Darby and into the city of Calumet-st. were laid before the Outagamie-Calumet highway committee Tuesday afternoon by the road committee of Appleton chamber of commerce.

The present routing of highway 10 is over highway 114 to Pinega's corners and then into Appleton over the Lakeland road. The route at Cherry-st. and through the city on Cherry and Richmond-sts to Wisconsin-ave.

It was decided to hold another meeting next week when the two committees will go over the present and proposed routes to ascertain the difference in distance. Any action to change the route will have to come from the Outagamie and Calumet highway committees which must petition the state to make the change. It also is the wish of the chamber of commerce committee to have the proposed route paved if the change is made.

The life of this organization committee was extended at the meeting Tuesday night and the group will attempt to secure members for the new organization.

A number of members signed up Tuesday night. Gus Sell, county agent, attended the meeting.

BELGIANS TO CHANGE THEIR PROHIBITION

Brussels, Belgium — (AP) — A governmental commission instituted with a view to revising the prohibition act which has been in effect since 1921 has decided in favor of maintenance of the present regulations prohibiting the consumption of liquor by the glass in public bars, hotels and restaurants.

Prohibition of pharmaceuticals products containing alcohol as suggested by a bill, also was rejected unanimously.

The present regulation allowing the sale of alcoholic beverages in a minimum of two quarts by specially licensed merchants will be revised to allow the sale of a one-half quart minimum.

HOAN SAYS HE HAS LEGAL RIGHT TO FUND

Milwaukee — (AP) — The $10,000 he made by selling foodstuffs with the aid of city employees is his "legally," Hoan said today. He said he was not morally, Mayor Daniel U. Hoan, is voicing that contention from the witness stand in a city council investigation yesterday.

The investigation grows out of Hoan's recent offer to turn the money over to the city conditionally. The conditions were not accepted and the council began an investigation of Hoan's method of acquisition; also why, when it was earned shortly after the war through the sale of surplus army and navy provisions, he waited until this time to turn it over to the city.

Hoan did not pay an income tax on the money, he testified, but he didn't think the city was being defrauded, even though it did not get a share of any taxes which might have been levied.

No city or state marketing license was obtained, Hoan said. He didn't think he needed one, the mayor said, even though he did know one would be required if he operated as a private individual.

On Thursday's Chautauqua Program

SCENE FROM "FOR ALL OF US"

The chautauqua program builders made a wise choice when they selected for the chautauqua this summer, William Hodge's great comedy drama, "For All of Us," to be presented Thursday night by the Olive Kackley Players at the legion chautauqua. A William Hodge play has never previously been presented on chautauqua and the public may be let in on the secret that it has taken three years' effort to secure this play which the New York Times credited as the best play of the many Mr. Hodge has written. At the time of its New York run the Wall Street Journal said: "The humorous interest of 'For All of Us' is as great as the serious message. To the numerous inquiries concerning a good play to go see, there are few now running."

Inland Waterways Lauded As Great Aid To Midwest

Milwaukee — (AP) — Just as Noah's vision in building the ark brought continued life to the human race, so are inland waterways to bring added prosperity to the great central section of the United States. Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, chairman and executive of the Inland Waterways corporation, said today in his address before the American Society of Civil Engineers, in session here.

Noah, said General Ashburn, was scoffed at as a "nut," but he kept on hammering away and when the flood came made Mount Arrarat the world's first satisfactory port. And even now, the general added, every man who throws himself into the struggle for inland and coastwise waterways transportation meets the same criticisms and objections. "But," he continued, "time and experience are demolishing their critics even as Noah did when his ark rose upon the crest of the waters and saved the faithful few of those days who believed in water transportation."

The Inland Waterways corporation, established by congress, is not a colossal failure, Ashburn said. It was shown that utilization has been the result of far-sighted vision and was not a mistake. The people themselves, he concluded, have seen the practical effects of such a policy and have demanded further and further expansion of the operations of the corporation.

Inland Waterways, said the general, fall into three distinct classes — the Great Lakes, improved rivers and canals. The water highways are open to traffic only part of the year, so enough business must be done in approximately eight months to give a fair return for the year. Private, contract and common carriers can be used, with the cost of operation and their value to the public increasing in the order named. He advocated a powerful system of common carriers to bring to the public which is taxed for creating the channels the greatest benefit.

In explaining the good the inland waterways corporation has done, General Ashburn also showed its cost is being met from revenues. In 1927, the barge line dollar came almost entirely from revenues, with the corporation paid a three-million deficit. Last year, revenues met the entire cost and brought a five and nine-tenths cent net income on the dollar.

Cost of transferring cargoes from barge to railroad car or vice versa must be absorbed, he said, by the rail-water rate. Unless it is, the public will gain no benefit. This could be accomplished by a standard depth channel, to save changing from upper river barges to lower river craft, or from-lake boat to canal barge.

The aviators' first words were: "Where are we?" When informed that they were at Albeccia, five kilometers outside Santander, and a few miles further from Old Orchard, Me., than Comillas, where the French biers landed, they cheered.

Their cheers gave way shortly to expressions of disgust that they had not succeeded in reaching Rome, which they had set as their goal when they left Old Orchard at 7.49 A. M. E. S. T. Monday Captain Yancey said they had known almost from the beginning that head winds would use up their fuel and prevent their completing the longer flight they had planned.

They immediately asked for gasoline to continue their flight to Rome at once, but when informed that it was not immediately available, postponed their departure until this morning. When they landed they had only about three quarters of a gallon of petrol left in their tanks.

Williams and Yancey explained that facing with a fuel shortage and fading darkness they had decided to take the risk of landing on the small Albeccia field rather than hazard a forced descent at night in the Pyrenees. The field was marked on their maps as available for landing, although they were not positive of their location.

SEX APPEAL NOT MUCH VALUE IN SALESMANSHIP

Mackinac Island, Mich. — (AP) — A blow at sex appeal as a business asset was dealt last night by Louis E. Van Norman of Washington, D. C., noted editor and chief business specialist of the United States Department of Commerce. In addressing the formal opening session of the pioneer convention of the National Federation of Women's and Professional Saleswomen's clubs.

He said a recent survey conducted by the United States Department of Commerce to determine the effect of sex on salesmanship showed it of little worth. Questionnaires returned in the survey showed that when men purchase articles for personal use they do not like to deal with women clerks, he said, but when purchasing for women they want feminine advice.

In outlining three other factors that rub men the wrong way, he said: "We don't like to see women using business as a waiting period for Prince Charming. We don't like to see women not good sports. That is, we want women to remember that the head of the postoffice line, or the best seat in a street car is not reserved for them."

FOUR ARRESTED IN SALESMAN'S DEATH

Coroner's Jury Finds Man Met Death by Blow on His Head

Norristown, Pa. — (AP) — Four men were under arrest today in connection with the death of William Norman Heim, automobile salesman of Trappe, Pa., whose charred body was found beneath his wreckage on the night of June 21.

Robert M. Halliwell, Isaac E. Halliwell, Harry Halliwell and Charles Dull were taken into custody in the court room shortly before midnight at the conclusion of the coroner's inquest. The jury found Heim had met death by a blow on the head from an instrument in the hands of an unknown person.

Robert Halliwell is owner of a garage in Ambler, where Heim was last seen alive; Isaac is Robert's brother and lives near the garage; Harry is Isaac's son, employed as the manager of the garage and Dull was formerly a salesman for the Halliwell.

Heim was heavily insured in favor of Robert Halliwell. In the Halliwell garage police found bloodstains. Stains on an automobile belonging to Isaac Halliwell were identified by the county chemist as having been those of human blood.

Robert Halliwell testified at the inquest that he had accounts in 11 banks and had discounted notes aggregating $110,000 for the year.

Robert testified that Heim owed the Halliwell's money and that it was to protect their interests that the insurance policy on Heim's life was taken out.

Mrs. Heim collapsed at the inquest.

MAN DIES OF SHOCK AFTER HE SEES HIS PAL DIE IN MISHAP

Chicago — (AP) — Even death could not separate John Joyce and his friend, Steve Noble, for long.

They had been working together many years, these two. In their trade as electricians they had taken chances together, without serious accident; but yesterday—

Steve, who was 51 years old stretched beneath the fly wheel of a dynamo they were repairing at the Armour and Co. plant. Joyce, younger by 11 years, was at work on the main shaft above.

Joyce called to his companion to hand him a file. Noble did not answer. His right hand had touched a loaded connection. He was dead.

Joyce watched with blanched face and quivering muscles as others removed the body. After it had been done, he walked with dragging steps, away.

Two blocks from the plant he pressed his hand to his eyes, tottered, fell. When other workmen reached him, he was dead.

STATE TO RECEIVE MORE FOREST FUNDS

$37,987 Is Allotted to Wisconsin for Protection Work This Year

(Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent)

Washington — Wisconsin will get $37,987 from Uncle Sam in the current fiscal year to help her in protecting her forests from fire than she got in the year that ended June 30.

The Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, has allotted $37,987 to Wisconsin for cooperative forest fire protection work during the fiscal year that started July 1, as against $32,636 during the fiscal year just ended.

The Badger State spends much more than this on forest fire protection, but this amount is all that is available from the Federal government for work under the Clarke-McNary act of 1924. The United States will spend $1,400,000 during the current fiscal year to help 38 states save their forests from fire.

The costs of the fire-protection work are met by money from the Federal government, from the state, and from private owners of forest lands. The work is done under the supervision of the state forestry departments under plans developed by them in co-operation with field inspectors of the Forest Service.

There is no new Forest Service law, for greatly increased support for this important work by all agencies, private and public, to close the enormous gap between the area of 416,147,700 acres needing protection and the area of 237,292,650 acres being protected under this co-operative plan.

BRITISH EDUCATOR SPEAKS AT MADISON

Madison — (AP) — The British educator is not confined in their instruction within strict conventional borders, Dr. Robert Thousless, head of the department of psychology at the University of Glasgow said here. He was in Madison for a lecture.

Thirty-five years old, a veteran of the Salonic campaign and head of the important department in the largest university in Great Britain, he is slightly grey, but lively in conversation. He expressed disappointment that a Madison newspaper should have said he spoke with "a delightful Scottish burr," saying that he had been in that country only during the three years he had been attached to the University of Glasgow.

While the English professor confines himself within the usual conventionalities of his subject, he is not bound by the banning of books and other formal orders to stay away from freedom of discussion.

Rough Weather Fails To Dampen Scout's Spirits

The cloudburst and heavy electrical storm of Monday evening did not put the damper on the spirits of valley council boy scouts encamped at Camp Chicagami, valley scout camp on Lake Winnebago, who hiked to High Cliff to spend the night.

The over night hike to High Cliff park is one of the features on the scout program for each group in camp and Monday was chosen as the day for the first group.

The sun was concentrating all its heat on the khaki clad boys as they trekked their way along the weary seven miles to High Cliff, and little did they know that the weatherman was against them.

The evening meal was prepared and was ready to be served when the clouds opened up their barrage, and scouts on the trip claim that water came down in such quantities that they thought the bottom dropped out of the sky.

The resourcefulness of the plucky youngsters was evidenced by the fact that during the worst of the down-pour and display of lightning, the assistant camp director was seen shampooing heads in true barber shop fashion.

After a long wait, when it was evident that there was going to be no let up, and after raincoat had ceased to be of any value, and some had resorted to swimming suits as the garments best suited for that particular kind of weather, half of the boys piled into the camp truck and were hauled to Chicagami, while the others awaited their return.

RANCH BOY TO MEET SIOUX WAR CHIEFS

Lucky Youth Will Be Entertained Throughout Day by Show Officials

Famous Sioux war chiefs will be met by the official 101 Ranch boy when he steps on the circus lot to welcome "his" show into his home town.

Hundreds of young readers already have tried their hands at telling something about the horse and found that most of the questions were pretty easy.

Well, most of 'em are kids, but then the hard ones are ones you really should know.

For instance, most everyone knows what a cayuse is. You don't think so? Well, perhaps not, but you'll find someone who does and of course there is always the encyclopedia. And the rest are equally easy.

Here they are again: 1. Were there horses in America when Columbus arrived? 2. What is the difference between a mustang and the broncho? 3. What is a thoroughbred? 4. Are polo ponies really ponies? 5. What is a cayuse? 6. Is the mule the same as a donkey? 7. Can a horse jump a barrier higher than 5 feet? 8. Is a horse of 16 hands large or small? 9. Who was Pegasus? 10. What is a filly?

Must Not Exceed 50 Words All you have to do if you are 12 years or older is answer these correctly and then tell in your own words not to exceed 50 words and written on one side of the paper only "Why the Horse Is Man's Best Friend." The boy submitting the best essay and the most nearly correct answers to the above 10 questions will be named the Official Appleton 101 Ranch Boy and will attend the two performances of the big show to be given here Tuesday, July 16. He will also be allowed to entertain a guest. He will eat in the cook-house of the big show along with the cowboys, Indians and other performers and he will ride in the big street parade. What a day, kids! Joining a circus and not having to run away to get away from Camp.

Best answers and essays will be awarded tickets to the big show. All answers must be in the Post-Crescent office not later than Saturday noon July 13. Winners will be announced Monday, July 15.

Address your answers: 101 Grand Wild West Show Editor, Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis.
